AGENT FOR

The Advance Threshing Machinery.

The best and fastest thresher in America, and a machine that stands without a rival. The ADVANCE Thresher has NEVER been REPLACED by any other machine on the Coast, but has replaced several others that HAVE FAILED to fill WARRANTEE. Why get some OLD STYLE machine because it is cheap when you can get an ADVANCE on the start and do good work in any kind of grain. You do not have to cut and try with the ADVANCE, but start your power, then commence threshing at once. I take the liberty of referring you to the following parties owning ADVANCE Threshers (without their knowledge): Dr. H. A. Davis, Harrisburg, after wasting most of the season trying to run a cheap machine, bought an ADVANCE and averaged 2206 bushels per day. M. F. White & Co., Dixie, same experience, but after getting an ADVANCE averaged 2046 bushels per day. Knox Bros., Albany, with a little 28-inch machine averaged 650½ bushels per day. Henry T. Bold, Spangle, writes, after trying a ——— machine the best part of the season bought an ADVANCE. Was then able to run without a blacksmith and carpenter shop. The ENGINE is guaranteed to pull more than any other, and will outtravel all others on the road. If you hear any loud boasts, please tell the parties the ADVANCE THRESHER and ENGINE are sold on their merits entirely. And I am willing to prove all I claim in any field at any time. Do not be humbugged by buying any machine until you see the ADVANCE. I also handle steam fitting goods iron pipe, laundry machinery and many other specialties. Send for catalogue of what you want.

A GREAT STREET FAIR

That Is the Appearance of the Burned City.

BUSINESS IS DONE IN TENTS

Gangs of Workmen Already Removing the Masses of Debris.

HOW THE HUNGRY PEOPLE ARE FED

Tacoma Continues Her Noble Work—Every Dollar Sent to Seattle Can Be Used to Advantage in the Work of Relief.

SEATTLE, June 10.—If a stranger uninformed of last week's fire had suddenly dropped into Seattle to-day, and had walked down Second street, he would have thought he was in the midst of some great street fair. The thoroughfares were filled with moving crowds of people and vehicles of all descriptions, while the sidewalks were lined with the booths and tents of hawkers and venders, whose cries as they proclaimed their nondescript wares and edibles, the clang of the bell of the electric cars, and the shouts of the drivers of many wagons, added to the usual confusion of a busy street, gave it the irresistible holiday appearance.

But when the eye was turned to the south and west, in there met a scene of smoking desolation that divested the scene entirely of attractiveness, and presented the awful extent of last week's great disaster. The walls of building yet stand, grim and gaunt amongst the smouldering debris, while the streets are choked with loose bricks, junk, and a potpourri of trash that in places render them almost impassable. Sentries pace to and fro on the bounds of the burnt district, and challenge all comers who try to pass the lines. None are admitted in the daytime without a pass from the military authorities, while at night the countersign, changed daily, is absolutely demanded by the vigilant sentries.

But Seattle has already girded up her loins and started in earnest the work of building again the metropolis of Washington. Gangs of workmen are busily engaged on the water front, removing debris and repairing and replacing the ruined wharves. Attacks have been made upon the walls of the burned buildings, and they will immediately be removed, and work on new structures begun.

Men are engaged on the cable lines, and the Front street line will be started up in four days. The Yesler avenue line, already closed down before the fire, cannot be started for several weeks.

Telegraph, telephone and electric light wires are being rapidly replaced. The telephone system will be again started in a few days, and the electric light in a few weeks. The waterworks are already in operation.

Railway and steamboat transportation has hardly been interrupted by the conflagration, though considerable inconvenience has been experienced by both in handling passengers.

Business houses are finding locations in tents inside, and temporary structures outside the fire limits. Professional men are opening up offices in houses and wherever they can secure temporary accommodations.

The schools started up again this morning, and all the churches, save the Trinity Episcopal and Methodist Protestant, which were burned, held services in the usual places yesterday. The two houseless congregations held services in temporary quarters.

The daily newspapers are all issuing as usual.

Offers of aid continue to pour in, together with much money and more provisions.

The work of feeding the hungry at the armory and the Tacoma relief quarters goes on, and thousands take advantage of this free meals and beds.

Henry Villard was again in the city to-day and gave $1000 toward the relief fund.

A meeting of the committee on replanting the city was held this morning, and the views of property owners heard on the plan of widening and straightening the streets. It was decided to stay by the original plan, except on Yesler avenue, which will be left at sixty-six feet in width. Front and Commercial will be so ned and straightened. Railroad avenue will be widened and the entire city, when rebuilt, will present a much more handsome and commodious appearance than heretofore.

The number of property owners who have announced that they will build as I rebuild is very many, and if present intentions are carried out this year Seattle will have far more business brick within a year than it had before the fire.

A large number of insurance adjusters are at work on the losses, and all say they will pay without any quibbling.

Herbert Folger, manager for the New Zealand Insurance Company in Oregon and Washington, made arrangements yesterday for the transfer of $30,000 for the Stimpleton, Bennett & Folger loss. He had a million authorized Dexter, Horton & Co., of Seattle, to cash checks in favor of policy holders to that amount. Mr. Folger still holds an unimpaired letter of credit on London for $5,000, available in the event of other fires occurring.

TACOMA'S NOBLE WORK.

The Committee Has Been Feeding Three or Four Thousand People Daily.

TACOMA June 10.—David Wilson, chairman of the Tacoma relief committee, came from Seattle this afternoon, having been relieved by G. W. Thompson, of this city. He will return to-morrow. Mr. Wilson says that the committee has been feeding three or four thousand persons daily, and that about five hundred persons have found sleeping accommodations nightly in the relief tents. He believes that fully two-fifths of the population was left without homes by the fire, many of them of the poorer classes. He has had almost as many applications for food and provisions from people who came with baskets and covered pay for it, as from those who get their meals in the tents. He believes that those who availed themselves of the bounty extended by the Tacoma relief committee fully appreciated the fact that the help was the outpouring of honest sympathy that moved the Tacoma people to spring to the rescue of the stricken city as they did. He thinks the relief tents will be operated the rest of the week.

"The people of Seattle," said Mr. Wilson, "are grateful for the help extended to them, not only from Tacoma but from all sections of the country."

He has had many applications for money from persons who were doing a small business, who lost all they had by the fire and want to start anew. The $20,000 subscribed by the Tacoma people, together with the provisions, will keep the relief tent going, and some arrangement will be made relative to the residue after that work is accomplished.

Twenty insurance adjusters arrived from San Francisco for Seattle on the Portland this evening, and were furnished with cots in the Hotel Tacoma reading-room, every hotel in the city being crowded. They will leave for Seattle in the morning.

A NUMBER OF SAFES OPENED.

The Contents of Each Found To Be a Charred Mass.

TACOMA, W. T., June 10.—Company A of the Tacoma Guard, arrived in Seattle to-day, and relieved the home guard.

The work of clearing away the debris in the burn district was begun to-day in earnest. Scores of safes belonging to business men were opened, and their contents found to be a charred mass. All the contents of the vaults of the various banks have been found to be in perfect order.

The Evening Times made its appearance in Seattle this morning for the first time since the fire. Its leading editorial calls attention to the generous assistance of the Tacoma people.

Among the subscriptions received to-day were $500 from Samuel Coulter, of Portland; $250 by ex-Governor Alger, of Michigan; $1000 from citizens of Vancouver, B. C.; $250 from the Studebaker Manufacturing Company, of Indiana, and $329 from the faculty of Cornell College, of New York sent by ex-Governor Alonzo B. Cornell.

THE LOSS.

It Will Not Be Far From Fifteen Million Dollars.

SEATTLE, W. T., June 10.—No statement of losses can be made more accurate than that already sent. The loss has been placed at $15,000,000, and this, it is believed, will be found to be a good estimate. In the course of two or three days a complete and accurate account can be furnished.

Five hundred tents sent by General Gibbon from Vancouver have been erected on the Hill tract, near the Jackson street grounds, by Lieutenant Kimball, U. S. A., assisted by officers of the National Guard. The camp has been named Camp Haines, in honor of the commander of the First regiment. The Armory, which is headquarters of the militia, is known as Camp Moore, in honor of the governor of Washington.

The Tacoma relief bureau to-night offered to turn over its tents, with all provisions and blankets, to the Seattle committee, believing that fuller an effective work can now be done by that home committee. The transfer will probably be made to-morrow.

Contributions of cash now aggregate $86,000. Of this $12,000 has been in the hands of the committee, and the remainder is yet to come. But little actual cash is now on hand.

FROM THE RELIEF COMMITTEE.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Supervisor Boyd, a member of the relief committee, this morning received the following dispatch from Seattle:

SEATTLE, W. T., June 10.

C. N. Boyd, Chairman of the Finance Committee, of the Board of Supervisors: Our loss is great, but not irreparable. Our relief committee is busy, and are feeding ten thousand daily. Thousands of laborers are without work or homes. The loss is fully $15,000,000. Our committee is receiving and using the liberal contributions, and will continue to do so. Thousands are sleeping out of doors, but the weather is good. We will commence on all hands to-morrow, and in a few weeks we hope to be in shape to get along.

J. R. LEWIS, Chairman Relief Committee.

VANCOUVER'S CONTRIBUTION.

VANCOUVER, W. T., June 10.—At a meeting of the citizens' committee for subscriptions, and others the following resolution was adopted:

WHEREAS, Our sister city of Seattle has been devastated by fire, and hundreds of the inhabitants rendered destitute and homeless; be it therefore

Resolved, That we tender our sincere sympathy to our unfortunate fellow citizens in their severe distress, and transmit to them the sum of $700 as a public expression thereof.

This is Vancouver's first installment. The churches assembled and had a joint meeting last night at the Standard theater, where another subscription was taken with good results, and the committee have been at work again to-day.

ACT ON TAKEN BY THE METHODISTS.

CHICAGO, June 10.—At a meeting of the Methodist ministers to-day, the committee was instructed to inquire whether the Methodists of Seattle, W. T., need assistance; and if so to adopt the necessary measure to assist them.

CASH SUBSCRIPTIONS.

TACOMA, June 10.—Samuel Collyer, agent of the Tacoma relief fund, says the actual amount of cash subscriptions raised for the Seattle sufferers in this city to date is $18,647 50.

THE SAN FRANCISCO RELIEF FUND.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Up to noon to-day the subscriptions to the Johnstown relief fund amounted to over $60,000.

GENEROUS CONTRIBUTIONS.

The Good Work of Helping the People of Seattle Goes Nobly On.

SPOKANE FALLS, June 10.—The Spokane county commissioners to day appropriated $1000 for the relief of the sufferers on account of the Seattle conflagration. Donations to date in this city reach $11,432, with several committees of the Board of Trade, churches and ladies at work, besid s numerous benefit entertainments to be given during the week. The people of this city will contribute about $15,000, or more if needed.

THE CRONIN INQUEST.

Nothing of a Sensational Nature Developed During the Day.

CHICAGO, June 10.—Nothing of an interesting character developed at to-day's session of the coroner's jury of inquest. During the morning Michael Whalen, the suspended detective who was with Detective Coughlin when they met Smith, the man suspected of driving Dr. Cronin to his death, but did not arrest him, and Thomas O'Connor, a tinsmith, were the only witnesses. Both are members of the Clan-na-Gael, but rigid cross questioning failed to connect them with the doctor's taking off.

During the noon recess the jury held a consultation with the coroner in his office, in which it was decided that all witnesses summoned to testify whose evidence would be but corroborative of what had already been offered, she uld be excused, the jury being, in their own minds, as satisfied of the truth of the principal allegation, that Cronin came to his death as a result of a conspiracy, and that sufficient motive and motive has been shown to form a conspiracy. Should any witnesses be on the list the ordinary of whom would contradict anything thus far presented, it was decided that such witnesses be of course heard, as well as those who would have anything new. This decision will doubtless shorten the inquest at least one day.

At the afternoon session James Carroll and A. J. Jordan, Clan-na-Gael men were put on the stand and examined at length, without bringing out any thing new or sensational.

Thomas Whalen, a brother of ex-Detective Michael Whalen, and cousin of the ice-man Sullivan, was next sworn. He denied being a member of the Clan-na-Gael.

Patrick G. Cuman, the last witness of the day, avowed himself a member. Nothing of any importance was extracted from either.

INSPECTOR BYRNES NOT INTERESTED.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Inspector Byrnes denied this evening that he was doing any work in the matter of the Cronin assassination in Chicago, or that he had had any communication with the Chicago authorities upon the subject.

AN ACT OF COURTESY TO UNCLE SAM.

The Chilian Government Agrees to the Extradition of an Embezzler.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The World to-morrow will say: The West Coast Telephone Company have received a notification from Santiago, Chili, that after a long fight the courts there have sanctioned the extradition of William A. Bushnell, alias George Hanson, and that he has been handed over to Detective Reilly, who left New York in October, 1888.

He arrested Bushnell for a ten-year-old forgery of $36,000 on Butler & Hubbard, after he had succeeded under the name of Hanson in stealing $25,000 from the West Coast Telephone Company, of which he was the agent in Chili.

The case is one of the most extraordinary extradition cases in years. There is no treaty between the United States and Chili, and the prisoner is delivered as an act of courtesy to Uncle Sam.

The man made many friends in Santiago. The town took sides, a duel was fought, and wagers of thousands of dollars were made that he would never be brought back to New York.

AFFAIRS AT HAYTI.

Conflicting Advices From There Leave the Actual Status in Doubt.

NEW YORK, June 10.—The steamship Alias, from Port au Prince, arrived this morning. The first officer told a reporter that he had heard nothing of the reported overthrow of Legitime.

The information made to him by two officers of Legitime was that Hippolyte's forces were within seven miles of Port au Prince, but the opinion was then expressed that there would be no decisive fighting until fall, on account of the condition of the roads.

The Alias carried the transferred mails from the Hayti, which left there May 30. By this mail advices were sent to a local firm to the effect that Hippolyte's forces were within twenty-one miles of Port au Prince, and that Legitime was still in power. The news brought by the Alias leaves the state of the Haytian troubles in doubt.

A cable dispatch from London, dated May 31, stated that a dispatch had been received there from Hippolyte saying that he had defeated Legitime, occupied Port au Prince, and proclaimed himself provisional president. It is considered unlikely that this could occur so soon after Hippolyte was two miles from Port au Prince, as stated in the advices already mentioned, and the report fifteen days earlier that the armies were separated by only seven miles, makes the matter appear still more confusing.

PACIFIC COAST PRODUCTS.

"The East Will Take All the Prunes the Coast Can Supply."

NEW YORK, June 10—Wheat dealers here are watching the California, Oregon and Washington crop with a great deal of interest. Together they are expected to produce 75,000,000 bushels. Washington alone is estimated at almost 16,000,000.

A leading dealer in dried fruits says that the demand for Pacific coast prunes is greater than ever before. Dealers must have good stock, though much inferior stock is placed and is injuring the trade. The East will take up all the prunes the coast can supply, at good figures, but producers must be more careful in goods that are boxed for the market.

There is no change in the hop market from last week.

ABOUT TO RETURN FROM CANADA.

Dieckmann's Creditors Refuse to Prosecute, and He Will Be Safe in St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, June 10.—It is stated here on good authority that Henry Dieckmann, ex-president of the Meinrell Burgess Milling Company, and executor, guardian, etc., of the Mercer and Gage estates and heirs, will be enabled to return from his enforced habitation in Canada by July.

Dieckmann left St. Louis in February, leaving liabilities of about $140,000. An assignment was made, but sufficient assets have been discovered to cut the amount down to $60,000. All of this amount was swallowed up in speculation. His bondsmen have satisfied the urgent claims, and his relatives, who are the heaviest losers, will not prosecute.

Why will you suffer from Indigestion and Dyspepsia? Simmons Liver Regulator is pleasant and sure.

THE PIT OF DEATH.

Another Day of Effective Work at Johnstown.

AWFUL SCENES IN A CEMETERY

The First Formal Funeral Been Since the Great Disaster.

THE HEALTH CONTINUES GOOD

The Danger of An Epidemic Has Nearly Vanished—Recovery and Burial of More Bodies—Many Drunken Men Perished.

JOHNSTOWN, June 10.—The progress of the work at the stone bridge to-day has been more satisfactory than any so far. The engine on the bridge has done more work than fifty men. Huge masses of broken and bent iron and immense timbers that five men had been trying to move for days were lifted from their places and moved with ease. Fourteen more of these great helpers have been sent for.

A heavy charge of dynamite was set off to-day, and a great deal of good was done. It demonstrated the fact that a heavy charge must be used in order to do any good.

Three bodies were found to-day near the stone bridge and ten or twelve were found in that vicinity.

All the commissary stations are kept busy. At the one at Cambria a vast amount of provisions and clothes has been distributed. Long lines of the sufferers stood in the heat and rain awaiting their turn. No one is furnished without an order, and every department is under the strictest discipline. Most excellent work is being done here. Some good work is being done at the Americus club's commissary and at the others.

The hurried burial of the dead in the Prospect Hill cemetery is causing the residents of that beautiful suburb of Johnstown a great deal of annoyance, and many cases of much sickness. The bodies were placed in cheap coffins and none were secure. The odor from the decomposed bodies, arising to the surface, attracts a number of dogs, who make night hideous by howling and pawing over the graves. The bodies were not only three feet under ground, as there was no time to dig the graves deeper. It was found necessary to place guards in the Hill cemetery yesterday to drive the dogs away.

To-day Dr. Miller instructed the Americus club, the members of which assist in the cemetery, to secure disinfectants at once and place it on the graves, thus killing the odor.

The first funeral of a dead victim that might be truly called such, and in which the corpse was taken to the cemetery in a wagon, followed by mourners in carriages, and at which a regular service was read over the remains, were of the thirty-five bodies recovered to-day, eleven of them at the stone bridge. Those taken out of the water were in a much better condition than those found among the debris. The latter were not only horribly bloated and disfigured in features, but decomposition had set in, the stench arising therefrom so unearthly that the men at the various morgues found it a disagreeable duty to wash them.

The list of the unknown is growing, as the means of identification become more obscure.

The report of Dr. Sibbet, addressed to Dr. Groe, may be given in brief as follows:

"FOURTH WARD SCHOOL HOUSE MORGUE, June 8.

"The bodies received here are 219: Pennsylvania railroad station morgue, 182; Morrellville morgue, 128; St. Columbia church morgue, in Cambria county, 83; the Bowen morgue, 72; Millville, 36; Grand river chapel, 118; the old Minersh, Indiana county, morgue, 56; Minersh proper, 60. Total, 1889."

Rev. Father Tranmeste, pastor of the Church of the Immaculate Conception, reports that out of a congregation of 959 he has lost certainly 113. He thinks the drowned alone will reach 150.

THE STATE BOARD OF HEALTH.

The official bulletin of the state board of health, issued to-day, says:

"The reports received last evening from the inspectors of this board show that the favorable condition stated in the first report continues. No contagious diseases of any kind prevails. There are a few cases of mild typhoid. There are no signs of any epidemic. The bodies still in the wreck are so covered with earth as not to be dangerous to health. There is every precaution being taken to prevent the contamination of water supply by the town of New Johnstown. There is no ground whatever for alarm in this matter at present. The weather is cool and favorable. Although the destruction of life has been appalling, there is apparent success to be encouraged."

Mr. Scott held this afternoon: "Work will continue as it has until Wednesday, when everything will be handed over to the state. We are obtaining some sort of system, and have finally brought a thousand order out of the chaos. The work of relief will have to continue until the people can take hold for themselves. When the Cambria Iron Works and other mills resume, the people will be able to earn money. The great aim at present is to give employment. The line of charity will gradually shade into that of the ability of taking care of themselves. Until that time has come, the people will have to be taken care of."

Mr. Masson, in charge of the removal of the bodies from the ruins, says that up to this date he has found over $6000 in money in the pockets of the victims. The largest sum was $314 25.

A SUGGESTION FROM PRIVATE DALZELL.

JOHNSTOWN, June 10.—Private Dalzell has written the associated press a letter, in which he says: "The widows and orphans whose husbands and fathers were drowned on the day of the great calamity are entitled to accrued pensions due a soldier at the time of his death, and no longer. This also applies to those whose pension claims were pending. He further suggests that all insurance companies should publish a list of persons having policies in their companies in the flooded districts, because in many cases the policies are lost.

MANY DRUNKEN MEN PERISHED.

DETROIT, June 10.—A. S. Hatch, superintendent of the electric light works at Johnstown, says that liquor is responsible for the loss of at least 2000 lives during the flood. He says after the water invaded the first floors, men invaded the saloons, and at the time of the great wave nearly a thousand drunken men were on the street. They were unable to save themselves, and they caught and dragged others down. Moreover, their families drowned for lack of their assistance.

THE SAN FRANCISCO FUND.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—There will be a meeting of the relief committees having charge of the fund being accumulated for the benefit of the Johnstown sufferers, at the rooms of the Merchants' Exchange, to-morrow. At that meeting the question of raising funds by the holding of the Seattle fire will be considered.

NO DANGER OF AN EPIDEMIC.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Surgeon-General Hamilton, when asked as to the Johnstown horrors, replied that there is no danger of an epidemic.

Disastrous Explosion in the Mines at Carbonado.

A YOUNG LADY DRAGGED TO DEATH

The Railroad Commission Case Argued and Submitted Before the Supreme Court—Movements of the Willard Party.

TACOMA, W. T., June 10.—An explosion occurred in the Carbonado coal mines, thirty miles from Tacoma, this morning, resulting in the death of David Evans, one of the bosses, and the caving in of part of the mines. Evans went into the gangways of the miners early this morning to see if they were all right, for the workmen who were to come later. The fans had been working all of Sunday night. Evans is supposed to have carried a naked lamp, which set fire to the gas collected in the mines. The explosion knocked down about 200 feet of one of the tunnels and seventy chutes, and killed Evans outright.

The miners began this morning digging into the debris to get Evans's body, but the fire damp was so foul they could make but little headway.

A YOUNG LADY KILLED.

Her Saddle Turns, and She Is Dragged to Death by the Frightened Horse.

HARRISBURG, W. T., June 8.—Thursday two ladies—Wallace Yocum and Davis—left Ellensburgh, horseback, to visit friends in the Big Bend, seventy miles distant. This is the twenty-second day after the meeting of the company in Portland, of which he is the second vice president. Mr. Oakes is expected in the morning, and in the evening they will leave for Portland. Mr. Salomon, who accompanied Mr. Villard and Mr. Oakes across the continent, left for San Francisco this evening.

Newman Kline, assistant superintendent of transportation of the Northern Pacific road, arrived in the city to-day from Helena.

Captain J. C. Ainsworth, of California, arrived here to-day.

The Merchants' National bank of this city, Hon. W. J. Thompson, president, increased its capital stock to-day to $250,000, the largest in the territory.

FROM ALBANY.

Damages Claimed for Malpractice—Commencement Exercises.

ALBANY, Or., June 10.—William F. C. Smith has filed suit in the circuit court against Dr. J. S. Courtney, of Lebanon, for $5000 damages for malpractice. It is Smith's contention that he had his leg broken accidentally, and Dr. Courtney attended him. Mr. Smith alleges malpractice and that professional service was badly done.

Commencement exercises of the Albany college are in progress this week. Yesterday the baccalaureate sermon was delivered by Rev. Dr. S. G. Irvine, of this city, followed by a sermon before the Christian societies of the colleges in the afternoon by Rev. J. H. Thompson, of Corvallis. To-night occurred an entertainment by the undergraduates. To-morrow evening Dr. A. J. Brown, of Portland, will deliver an address before the literary societies of the college, after graduating exercises proper will occur Wednesday.

OUR RELATIONS WITH CANADA.

The Senate Committee Hold a Meeting in St. Paul.

ST. PAUL, June 10.—The senate committee on relations with Canada met with representatives of this city to-day. They especially asked for testimony as to the transportation of merchandise and unrestricted reciprocity for the ports of both of the twin cities and the Northwest.

Canada was favored by numerous witnesses. J. M. Egan explained the Manitoba railroad system, which extends from this city throughout the northwestern portion of the United States and to Canada, stating that his business consisted largely in carrying from the United States to Canada these manufactured articles, which must go bad. Captain Bowen, lumber manufacturer, and others represented several lumber companies which cut about 40,000,000 feet a year. He was not in favor of free lumber. Canadian lumbermen paid for what lumber they cut, while they had to pay cost them on this logs from 75 cents to $1.25 thousand on pine. They paid no tax. They only paid for what they cut and were free from loss. Minnesota and Northern Minnesota lumber had to be bought outright. Their labor was much cheaper, as many lumbermen come from the Eastern provinces of Canada to work for from $22 to $26 per month, while they have wanted for from $32 to $36 the previous year. The majority of lumbermen here were Scandinavians, who lived in the state.

General Drake said that Canada could not make arrangements with the United States consistent with the terms of England, for the tariff of this continent must then be the same against England. This country could not manufacture for Canada against England. He favored political rather than commercial union.

The general tendency of the testimony favored reciprocity, and the members of the committee say that this has been the case wherever they have gone. They will have a meeting in Minneapolis to-morrow.

An Illustration of Mind-Reading.

NEW YORK, June 10.—A somewhat remarkable feat was performed at the Bijou theater Saturday night by J. Randall Brown, the mind-reader, who claims that he taught Washington Irving Bishop. Another act was performed on the stage of the Bijou by the Western Union Telegraph office. Professor Cromwell, the well known lecturer, proceeded to the telegraph office, and placed one end of the wire to his forehead. Brown then folded up his other end to his brow, on the stage, and after a few moments of hesitation wrote the figures 742 on the blackboard in front of him. When this was done, a message was sent to the professor that the experiment was completed, and a few minutes afterwards he returned to the theater, and said that the numbers he had thought of was the one put down by Brown. On the stage with Brown at the time he performed the experiment was a reliable committee chosen by the audience.

Mines Closed Down.

MILWAUKEE, June 10.—The Evening Wisconsin's Hurley special says: The Iron King mine, one of the best shippers on the Gogebic range, closed down to-day, owing to trouble among the stockholders. All of the Bessemer Consolidated Company's mines have also closed down, owing, as the superintendent states, to a lack of ready cash. A large number of men are made idle along the Gogebic range by the suspensions.

Three Men Probably Fatally Injured in a Collision With a Train—Personal and General Notes—The Travel North.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—The Chinese syndicate, that is completing arrangements to manage the pearl fisheries on the lower coast of Lower California, is composed principally of San Francisco Chinese merchants. Yee Sheong Long, Lam Choong Yuang and Kim Ling, so says the Bulletin's informant of the block.

The syndicate will conduct the business under the name of the On Tick Company, and will have $1,000,000 as a backing.

In addition to Yee, Lyn Chuck Yuen, one of the members of the syndicate and a shrewd Chinaman, stated that his people proposed to do almost all of their business with China by way of San Diego.

Said he: "We intend to work up a lively trade with China, and we will do an extensive shipping business also with Yee Cheng Long and Co.'s stores on this coast and Pen Yamma and as far as the north as Alaska. Our first move will be to charter a vessel and send her to Hong Kong with a cargo of pearls, shell and meat. On her return trip, the vessel will bring a cargo of Chinese merchandise for the Celestial towns of San Diego and our stores along the Southern coast."

"Does the concession of the fisheries and mines to the Chinese syndicate mean that a large number of Chinese laborers will be sent from the United States or China to work these industries?" was asked.

"No, not for some time, at least. The fact that there is no treaty between China and Mexico has caused our government to order its agents to keep out of that district. Recently Chinese laborers were sent to Mazatlan and Guaymas under contract, but the Chinese government ordered their return, owing to the non-existence of a treaty. China has a representative at present in Mexico negotiating for a treaty. In the event of one being agreed upon, 15,000 Chinese will be sent from China to Lower California. Few will go from this country, as they would be unable to return, should they so desire."

THE RUNAWAY PREACHER.

He Is Declared by His Friends To Be Insane. Released From Custody.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Rev. C. H. Smith, of Boston, who was incendiary in last night's dispatch to The Oregonian, as having been arrested here on the charge of deserting his family, was released from custody to-day, there being no charge entered against him.

In February last he received a call to the Pilgrim Congregational church at Dorchester, Mass., and accepted it. He was to have preached his first sermon Sunday, March 10, and left his home to-day before, on the pretense of going to Dorchester to make preparations for his installment.

The day following, his hat was found on the banks of the Charles river, near Boston. It was thought that he had committed suicide. The river was dragged, but without result, and circulars containing his picture and description were sent all over the country. No trace of him was found, however, until yesterday, when Frank Campbell, his brother-in-law saw him on a car near the city park. Smith tried to escape when they reached the city, but was finally called a policeman and had him taken into custody.

Smith's relatives claim that he is demented. Smith says that he left home owing to family troubles, and declares that he will never return.

He says that the time he has spent in the first night in the Charles River Park. He had determined to commit suicide, but his courage deserted him. He says that he has no recollection of what happened for that night he found himself in a street car. He remained here for two weeks, and then went to Seattle. He came here last April, assumed the name of Charles R. Johnson, and since then has been engaged as a reporter on one of the morning dailies.

RUN INTO BY A TRAIN.

Italian Gardeners Seriously Injured Near San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—A wagon, containing Antonia Mangene, Andrea Mangene and George Mangene, Italian market gardeners, also a woman, believed to be Largomarsino's wife, and a boy, was run into by a local train on the Ferries & Cliff House railroad this afternoon, the three men being severely injured.

Engineer Cunningham stated that he was prevented from seeing the wagon until it was on the track by a house, which obstructed the view near the crossing. The bell was ringing at the time, and when he saw the wagon he reversed the brakes, but this was of no avail.

The wagon was completely smashed. The horse was not hurt, in fact, he did not cut in two, being instantly killed.

The men were removed to the hospital, where Mangene and Demichell, who were unconscious, were found to have received injuries that may prove fatal. Mangene's number of scalp wounds, the right leg was broken and he was bruised about the chest. It is thought that he was injured internally. Demichell's head and face were terribly crushed, the left arm broken below the elbow and the left hand crushed so that amputation may be necessary. The car wheels passed over his right leg below the hip, badly lacerating the flesh and breaking the bone.

Plundered by a Chinaman.

DUNSMUIR, Siskiyou County, June 10.—Yesterday at noon Miss E. E. Stone, railroad agent at this place, left here, locked the door of the station and went to lunch at the section house near by. A Chinaman, who had been hanging around the vicinity for two or three days, and who worked on the road during its construction, was sitting on the platform when the agent locked up. On her return she found that the padlock on the door had been sprung, the station entered and her room, adjoining the lunch room ransacked. The contents were strewn promiscuously about the floor, and $91 58 belonging to the railroad company and express company, together with a small amount of her own coin, was gone, and with it the Chinaman, who has not been apprehended. Constables are on his track.

An Attempt to Improve the Railway Mail Service.

JUNE WEATHER CROP BULLETIN

The President Makes a Number of Western Appointments—More Life-Saving Stations for the Northwest.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The following general circular was issued this evening from the post-office department:

In connection with the future management of the railway mail service, the general superintendent wishes to convey to those engaged in it, his desire to advance its efficiency and to bring to an early issue its plans of which are called specialties. I found them stronger in London than elsewhere, and not at all strong even in London Socialism in this sense as it yields to the single tax idea, which assigns as the ground of all injustice and advocates a definite and simple remedy. Free trade controversy with the socialists but am willing to meet them under proper conditions."

THE TRIPLE ALLIANCE.

Confidence in the Italian Government Voted by a Large Majority.

ROME, June 10.—During a debate in the chamber of deputies, on a vote of censure proposed by the extremists, on the Italian consul at Trieste, Cavalotte spoke in defense of Italy's alliance with Germany and Austria. He said Italy ought to maintain faithfully the treaty with Germany and Austria, as she would not come when she needed help to fight side by side with Austria to prevent the Adriatic from becoming a Slyv sea. He concluded by proposing a vote of confidence in the government.

Prime Minister Crispi declared that the peace of the world rested in the treaty. If the questions of nationality arose, Italy would have nothing to give and much to ask. Confidence in the government was then voted by a large majority.

A SPEECH BY GLADSTONE.

He Censures the Majority in the Last Parliament.

LONDON, June 10.—Gladstone made a speech today at Torquay. Referring to the pledges of the unionists at the last election, he said that he had never known, throughout his fifteen parliaments, such an instance of a majority in the house of commons trifling with the engagement by which it had obtained the suffrages of the people. At the next election, he declared, the people would know how to repay this treachery.

An Alleged Case of Faith Cure.
Garfield (W. T.) Enterprise.

A seemingly genuine case of faith cure has been performed in Garfield upon Mrs. Hagen, who has been a confirmed invalid since early last spring, and for the past two weeks has been in the most helpless condition. When being dressed for the occasion a couple of hours previous to her cure she suffered intensely.

A number of prominent Alventists of this place repaired to her house on last Saturday (their Sabbath), anointing her with oil, read the fifth chapter of the Gospel of James, and offered prayer, after which, with all solemnity, she was bidden rise, which she immediately did with the activity of a girl of 16, and in a transport of joy, fell to blessing the women present.

Mrs. Hagen is past middle-age and with a large family of children dependent upon her care. She has since been going about doing her own work with a countenance beaming with happiness, and is ready to substantiate the above at any time.

The Number of the Jews.
Pacific Courier.

A paragraph is going the rounds in regard to the number of Jews in the world. The Archives Judaiques, of Paris, makes the number 6,300,000. The late Professor Calvin E. The retirement of General Drum will cause the promotion of Lieutenant-Colonel Ruggles to the colonelcy, and Major W. A. Corbin to be lieutenant colonel, with a vacancy in the list of assistant adjutants-general with the rank of major, for which there is a bitter strife among a large number of captains. The following are a few of the names of those who have applied for the place: Captains Dougherty, Twenty-second infantry; Mannilus, Twenty-third infantry; Brinkerhoff, Fifteenth infantry; Smith, Third and Wood, Fourth cavalry; Bourke, Third cavalry; Taylor, Rockwell, Baker and Blunt, ordnance department; Sergiant, engineer corps; Wheeler, quartermaster's department; Hamilton, Second cavalry; Babcock and Thomas, Fifth cavalry; Edgerly, Seventh cavalry; Lond and Hughes, Ninth cavalry; Burbank, Third artillery; Kendall and Rice, Fifth infantry; Wells, Eighth infantry; Carpenter, Fourteenth infantry; Clapp, Sixteenth infantry, and Roberts, Seventeenth infantry. There are many others.

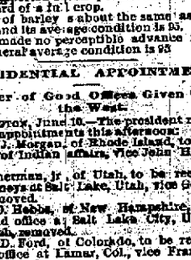
You don't have to continue dosing with Simmons Liver Regulator. Often a little cures effectually.

IT WAS LONG ENOUGH.



Colonel—Well, what's the matter now?

Private—I've got liver trouble and dyspepsia, and ought to get leave for thirty days.

Colonel—I'll give you ten, and if you take Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla that will be long enough.

Fred H. Bleaker of 19 Montgomery street, San Francisco, writes: I have spent many a dollar for medicines, but the only thing that ever stopped my liver trouble and dyspepsia was Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla.

Gustav Solomon of 213 Valencia street, San Francisco, writes that it has entirely freed him of his indigestion and sick headaches.

SALEM IS GROWING.

More rapidly than any other city of its size upon the Pacific Coast.

Three million brick will be used in building in Salem the present year.

Eighteen magnificent new brick store rooms, having a frontage of nearly four hundred feet, are now in process of construction. An extensive ice factory has already been constructed. An immense woolen mill will be completed before the end of the season. A forty thousand dollar box factory is to be built. From present appearances nearly two hundred dwelling houses will have been erected here during the year. Work will soon begin upon the State Reform School, and immense sums of money are to be spent upon the other State buildings. Nearly four miles of street railway has been built in Salem within the past six months. Various other extensive improvements, involving the expenditure of large sums of money, are contemplated. Salem has the finest mills upon the Coast. Salem has immense water power and expensive manufactories, employing large numbers of hands. Salem has electric lights, street cars, telephones, gas, extensive water works, and all modern conveniences. Salem has thirteen churches, and the oldest and best institutions of learning upon the Pacific Coast. Salem is famed as a city of churches and schools.

Salem is on the line of the great Southern Pacific Railway, and will shortly be connected with another great transcontinental railway. Two or three local lines are also contemplated. Salem has a free outlet to the sea by water, and has no fear of ever suffering extortion at the hands of the transportation companies.

Polk and Marion counties, the two richest counties in the Willamette Valley, which is famed for its fertility the world over, are both tributary to Salem, being connected at this point by a new free bridge, erected at an expense of $50,000. This is the very center of the richest part of the richest valley on the Pacific Coast.

Salem has an advantage over other State Capitals from the fact that, under the requirements of the Constitution, the State Insane Asylum, State Penitentiary, Blind School, Deaf and Dumb School and other public institutions, are located here. Salem is universally admitted to be the most beautiful and healthy city on the Pacific Coast.

According to a census, completed by the clerk of the school district, in March, 1889, Salem showed an increase of over 25 per cent for the year. According to this census, the present population is about 11,000, of which nearly 3000 have been added within the past year. At the same rate of increase, her population will be over 30,000 within the next five years. She is now increasing more rapidly than ever before.

Salem is wide awake and progressive and is to-day spending more money to advertise and develop her resources than any other city of twice her size west of the Rocky Mountains.

Salem is surrounded upon all sides by the finest fruit, stock and grain lands in the world. Good fruit lands in California sell readily at $1000 per acre. Far better fruit lands near Salem, where no irrigation is ever required, can be bought at from $30 to $100 per acre.

No other locality upon the face of the globe offers greater inducements to the investor or homeseeker.

Property is cheap, but is rapidly enhancing in value.

Parties who wish to learn more in regard to this favored locality can secure illustrated descriptive pamphlets free upon application to President of the Board of Trade of Salem, Oregon.

WELCOME.

JUDGE TANNER'S LEVEE.

The following cases were disposed of in the police court yesterday:

Frank Golden, simple drunk, fined $2; John McGuire and Mary Florence, John Thompson, Charles Moore, Mary Florence, John Thompson, Charles Miller and Murphy, drunk, fined $5 each; Mollie Glaster and Henry Lobe, same, fined $10 each; John Neher, charged with distributing handbills on telegraph poles, discharged; Ed Ward, charged with an assault, discharged; Joan Burk, charged with the same offense, fined $5; Joan Burk, charged with keeping a bawdy house, fined $50; Mrs. E. R. Wendy, assault and battery on Mrs. Chinaman, fined $10; John Hendrickson, charged with vagrancy, in the city park, fined $5.

The case against Maria Jiannini charged with using abusive language to Mary DeLin, was continued until this afternoon.

Frank Fuger, charged Sunday morning with assault with intent to kill Lizzie Young, in a case of threatening to kill Lizzie Young, had hearing in his case also continued until this afternoon.

Frank Hadsell, the Dooghereman who was arrested Saturday night for beating Mrs. Leslie, yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of simple assault and paid $5 fine.

Willie Kenner, the 8-year-old lad who stole a watch from a gentleman's vest pocket Friday night, was Saturday given a severe reprimand and set at liberty. The confinement in a dark cell seemed to have a salutary effect on the lad.

Mary Buckley and Emma Frischkorn, two young damsels of uncertain virtue, were arraigned on a charge of vagrancy. A plea of not guilty was entered, and the case will be considered in the police court this afternoon.

ARTICLES OF INCORPORATION.

Chas. Robson, F. O. Downing and Alexander Thomas, residents of this city, filed articles in the county court yesterday incorporating what is to be known as the Alaska Electric Power and Light Company, the duration of which is to be perpetual. The capital of the company's capital stock is fixed at $200,000 divided into 8000 shares of $100 each.

Articles were also filed incorporating the Yukon Mining and Trading Company, by Samuel Yoakum, Jr., Wm. Mitchell and Thomas F. Watson. The capital stock of the company is to be $1,000,000 divided into 100,000 shares of the par value of $10 each.

FILED FOR PROBATE.

The will of the late Lysander Kelsey was filed for probate in the county court yesterday by Mrs. Mary D. Kelsey, named by deceased as executor in the will. The estate is valued at $4218 71 which, with the exception of $400 is left bequeathed to his daughter, Elizabeth D. Kelsey, to his wife to be held for her own support and comfort.

AUTHORITY TO WED.

Marriage licenses were issued as follows by Deputy County Clerk T. E. Powell: Hugh Peters and Maud Clark, A. B. Isky and Millie H. Martin, John Bitner and Anna Smith, T. J. Alexander Moyer and Mary C. Wolfe.

DIVORCE CASE BEING TRIED.

In Judge Stearns's court the divorce case of Maria Schuster against Herman Schuster was heard. The twain were united in marriage in Bremen, Mo., July 16, 1856, and in April, 1887, Herman deserted his wife.

SECOND APPEAL.

On Wednesday the supreme court takes up the second appeal in the case of Chee Gong, the twice condemned murderer of Lee Yik.

G. G. Paulson vs. William Caples et al.; passed indefinitely.

John Josh sman, a native of Denmark, was admitted to citizenship.

A. M. Stansberry vs. William G. Stansberry; referee's report confirmed.

John A. Beck vs. Paul Schultze; plaintiff allowed to file an amended complaint.

PATENT CAR COUPLING.

An Ingenious and Long Needed Invention That Seems to Meet Every Necessary Requirement.

Mr. S. J. Northcutt, of Salem, has on exhibition at this city a car coupling invented and patented by him which possesses great merit.

A great deal of thought and study has been spent in the perfection of this invention, for perfect it seems to be, in every detail. It can be used as an automatic coupler or otherwise, as desired, and the great advantage to be gained by its use is that the person operating it has no occasion to put himself in danger by getting between the cars.

It can either be operated from the ground, from the top of the car, or from either side of the car, as is convenient. This model has been on exhibition at the Portland Mechanics' fair and also in the East in various places, and is pronounced by practical railroad men to be the best and most perfect coupler that has been produced up to the present time, there being no springs about it to break or get out of order.

It would be a great saving in the loss of human life if this apparatus was put into practical use on railroads. When a train is wrecked and scores alive to a hundred souls are hurled into eternity a great stir is made about it, but railroad employes that are killed one at a time are taken no notice of. However, it is a fact, nevertheless, that there are many more persons killed annually by coupling cars than are killed by accidents causing injury to passengers. Up to the year 1884 statistics state that 17,000 persons were killed annually by accidents occurring while attempting to couple cars.

There has been more thought and anxiety given to the subject of devising some means of coupling cars that would not be so dangerous, than to any other branch of railroading, but it there never has been anything generally accepted yet that seems to fill the bill. To the eye of a reporter these defects not appear to be a point lacking in Mr. Northcutt's invention. The coupling is completely automatic and adjustable to any links that may be desired. It is impossible, in a short newspaper article, to give all the points of the invention, but it certainly looks as though railroad companies would readily adopt it into general use.

Mr. Northcutt has been retarded by various unfortunate circumstances from placing the invention under the notice of railroad authorities. There is no doubt whatever of its merits, but the question will be how to secure its adoption.

BOARD OF TRADE MEETING.

Ship Borrowdale—Bar Pilotage—Sailor Boarding Houses—Appointing Marshals—Villard's Visit.

A regular meeting of the Board of Trade was held last evening, President Donald Mackay in the chair.

The matter of the libeling of the ship Borrowdale for pilotage and the offset being made by the pilots to perpetuate the old rates came up for consideration.

Mr. McKee said that if the O. R. & N. Co. did not wish to fulfill their contract with the Board, they would be placed in a most awkward position.

Some discussion followed, and the failure of the O. R. & N. to have a tug at the bar was considered a violation of their agreement, which was a matter of deep interest to the board.

The matter of appointing marshals for this city and Astoria, to look after sailor's boarding-houses, also came up for discussion. It was stated that no support could be looked to from the marshals in carrying out the law in this matter.

The marshals will, however, be state officers, and can enforce the law at Astoria as well as here.

It was finally decided that a committee be appointed to report the names of two persons suitable for marshals, and also an attorney be employed by the board to supervise and direct these officers, and, also to look after the suit against the Borrowdale, and a motion to that effect was carried.

Colonel J. McCraken said Mr. Villard would be here this week, and a room ought to be provided where he could address the public.

On motion a committee of five was ordered appointed to secure a room.

Something was said about misleading statements having been made in regard to Mr. Villard, and his being ready to answer all questions which might be put to him.

President Macleay having called Mr. Dodd to the chair said that in justice to Mr. Villard it must be said that he had carried out every promise he had made us, and that when he failed we received the lesser of the Northern Pacific was built to Tacoma. He brought Mr. Villard had been honest in all his promises.

The motion of furnishing assistance to any who were in need at Seattle also came up. Some remarks were made criticising the way in which the matter of raising and forwarding assistance had been conducted.

It was, however, clearly shown that there had been no negligence in this matter, and that everything done had been done promptly and in the best spirit, and that the citizens generally were deserving of credit for their liberality.

President Macleay said this city could send $10,000 or $20,000 if it was needed, $50,000 to relieve any distress at Seattle. There was no necessity for criticising the committee, who had acted with promptness and with the best intentions.

EARLY HISTORY OF HOOD RIVER.

The First Settlement at that Place—Old Oak Donation Land Claim—The Elliot Glacier.

Hood River at last has a newspaper of its own styled the Glacier, and now the outside world will learn something about that delightful valley so celebrated for its fruit, healthfulness and fine scenery. The Glacier gives the following concerning the early history of Hood River.

The first settlement in this place was made by Mr. Coe and family in 1852. The following winter being a very severe one and Mr. McLaughlin losing all his cattle, he moved to The Dalles. The next settler was Nathaniel Coe and wife Mary W., and four children, all boys, of whom the eldest L. W. now resides here. They were the founders of the C. S. N. Co., having built with Mr. Thompson the "Umatilla" which went over the Cascade rapids by accident; Charles who died in 1872 E. F. who is at present living here with his brother, the youngest of the family, Captain H. C. Coe. With the Coe family came William Jenkins, who was drowned in the Columbia at the mouth of Hood river, together with his son and James Laughlin in 1865, and James Johnson (more of The Dalles) and wife, and A. C. Phelps also of The Dalles settled here.

During early days when the trail along the river was about the only route from Portland to Walla Walla, it was a welcome stopping place. The Coe donation land claim, on which the town is built, is one of the oldest this side of the mountains. Just now the town is becoming justly famous as a summer resort. The heat is pleasantly moderated by the cool breezes which sweep up the Columbia from the ocean, and the surrounding mountains, with the big peaks of Hood and Adams, crowned with everlasting snows.

The building of a commodious hotel near the Mount Hood glaciers, which is now progressing rapidly, will furnish the only thing needed to make the Hood river country a paradise for tourists and sportsmen—good accommodations. The scenery can be equaled in the Northwest, and accessibility the Hood river glaciers discount all others. Three hours' ride by rail from Portland to Hood river, and from four to five hours' staging over a magnificent mountain road, bring staging over a magnificent mountain road, bring the traveler from the heat of the city to the region of perpetual snow.

NO HEARTLESSNESS WAS SHOWN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Referring to a local that appeared in this morning's OREGONIAN, entitled "No Mercy Shown," in connection with the Corson attempt at suicide, I wish to say that your informant is greatly in error. Mr. Corson has for the past six weeks been terrorizing the neighborhood by threats, exhibiting a pistol and creating a disturbance at all hours of the day and night. This attempt at suicide is an old trick of his, it being the third one—once by taking poison, and once by stabbing himself. Each time he was careful not to do himself much harm, and this time it was believed for some little time that he was only shamming.

As soon as it was known that he was hurt, his neighbors brought him water, procured a physician and a carriage to take him to the hospital.

It is no doubt true that the owner of the house refused to have him carried in, for the reason that not ten minutes before, he (Corson) had threatened to shoot him.

The neighbors feel that the imputation of heartlessness is unjust; that under the circumstances they rendered assistance as promptly and as much as was required. A NEIGHBOR.

No matter what the mouth's disease—
How foul the breath or teeth's decay—
With SOZODONT on all we seize,
And swiftly sweep it far away,
Leaving the gums pure firm and bright,
And the dull teeth as ivory white!

Through Pullman sleepers and dining cars; also second-class sleepers through to the East via Northern Pacific Railroad. Office, No. 121 First St., corner Washington.

EAST SIDE LAW MAKERS.

The City Council Held a Special Meeting Last Night.

Damaged Hose To Be Repaired—Fire Hydrants Out of Order—Democratic Primaries Elect Delegates.

A special meeting of the city council was held last night with President Merrick in the chair, and a full board of councilmen present.

Henry Meyer, chief of the fire department being present, addressed the council, and said that on investigation he had found several of the fire hydrants that could not be opened at all. He also said the reason he had submitted no written report, was from the fact that written reports had not received much attention in the past.

He stated there is considerable hose in the various engine houses, damaged about ten feet from the coupling, that could be used if the damaged portion were cut off. He was instructed to make the repairs indicated.

ROUTINE BUSINESS.

REPORTS.

From the street committee, recommending the passage of ordinances providing for the time and manner of improving Second and Seventh streets in the northern part of the city; adopted.

From the city surveyor, recommending that the following intersections be established: Multnomah and Eighth, 202.50; Multnomah and Ninth, 204; Multnomah and Tenth, 205.50; adopted.

STREET WORK ACCEPTED.

From the recorder, stating that the street commissioner and the city surveyor have each filed their acceptance of work on Twelfth street as follows: Work abutting blocks 241 and 202, contracted to be completed by John E. Woods; work abutting the southeast section of K street, contracted to be completed by J. A. Logan, and on the southwest section of K street, contracted to be completed by W. W. Royal; work on Sixteenth street abutting block 202, contracted to be completed by James Pratney for grading; adopted and warrants ordered drawn on the appropriate funds.

Providing for the time and manner of improving Second street, in McMillen's addition, from Holladay avenue to A street, in McMillen's addition; passed.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Terry moved that the street commissioner be instructed to put planking on intersection of Ninth and N streets; carried.

Hankin called attention to the dangerous condition of N street on the north side of Fourth to Water.

On motion the matter was referred to the street committee.

Water street was also referred to the same committee with power to act.

Hailpenny said there was hose in the engine houses in a damaged condition which can be repaired.

The chief of fire department was instructed to see that the repairs needed are made.

It was moved and carried that P. Olsen be granted permission to take dirt from V and put it on his lot, and that the city surveyor make the necessary survey to enable this to be done.

VARIOUS NEWS NOTES.

HOUSES BURGLARIZED.

Sunday night the houses of Mr. P. Sharkey and his son, Ed. J. Sharkey, in the northern part of the city, were entered, and a number of valuable articles taken from the residence of the former. Entrance was effected in the former house through a window. The sash in the shutter was cut, then the window was raised and the house entered. The family were sleeping on the second floor, and the thief entered the sleeping rooms without causing any disturbance. No information of the robbery was had until this morning, when an outside door was found open, clothes were missing, and two silver watches were gone. Mr. Sharkey's clothes were carried down stairs. His bank book and other papers were scattered on the floor. A new suit of clothes belonging to John Sharkey were taken. The thief evidently entered the window and went out through the door, which was unlocked from the inside.

The residence of Edward Sharkey was entered in same way, but nothing was taken.

Only 65 cents in money was obtained.

Henry Berger's house in McMillan's addition, was entered Sunday night, and also three other houses in that neighborhood were entered. Small articles only were taken. It is supposed that these depredations were committed by tramps, who find an excellent hiding place in the brush between Albina and East Portland.

WATER SUPPLY.

Judge Woodward stated last night he had about made up his mind to supply water to those living near his residence, at the south end of Fifth street. He proposes to build a large water tank on the hill in front of his residence and pump water into it from a well. He says he can secure an abundant supply of pure water in this way and give a good force. It is evident that the houses in that vicinity can not be supplied with water from pipes like water company has put along Fifth street, south of the bridge. Nothing less than a three or four inch main can furnish an adequate supply.

DEMOCRATIC DELEGATES.

The democratic primaries were held last evening, and the following delegates were elected:

First ward—J. B. Rappelee, G. H. Stout, J. M. Barthow, Frank Parker and John Crosier.

Third ward—Charles Parrott, M. E. Freeman, H. D. McGuire, G. W. Rae, S. W. Donelson.

Third ward—T. B. West, A. Hoyt, George Brady, C. R. DeBurgh, D. Jackson.

Fourth ward—J. W. Bleu, J. J. Kelley, J. D. Sullivan, T. J. Hannigan, M. J. Tougney.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.

There was a regular meeting of the school board last night.

C. O. Blakely received the contract for finishing the three school rooms, his bid being $1238.

The contract for furnishing wood was not awarded.

The teachers were most all elected; the list was not completed, but will be to-day.

DR. KUMMER'S LECTURE.

The lecture by the Rev. A. Kummer before the public schools will take place this evening in the Baptist church. All are invited.

NOTES.

A Meeting of the Subscribers of the Waverly and Woodstock Motor Line.

At a meeting of the subscribers of the Waverly and Woodstock motor line yesterday afternoon, a committee was appointed to contract for the building of an electric railway to the lands owned by the subscribers.

A favorable proposition having already been received from the Sprague Electric Company, it will only be a matter of a few days until the formal contract is entered into.

The plan of crossing the river is not yet ready for publication, but the assurance is given that the means of reaching the city of Portland will be first-class. On the East Side, the line will follow the most direct route through East Portland to the corner of Second street and Ellsworth street, thence through Waverly, thence south through the Gatman place and the eastern terminus will be about the center of Woodstock, the new suburb owned by Messrs. Havely, Smith and others, in section 18, township 1 south, range 2 east.

This line will place in the market a large area of first-class suburban property which has heretofore been neglected on account of its inaccessibility.

The persons interested in this project have labored long and diligently, and to Captain J. W. Kerns and Mr. Stearns, of Selfer, Stearns & Co., for their persistent and patient work is largely due the credit for the final success of the enterprise.

OFFICIAL TERMS.

A certain degree of authority may be supposed to attach to what the Indianapolis Journal says about the policy of the national administration. That paper is, in fact, "the national organ" for the Harrison presidential term; office-holders and office-seekers will therefore hear with interest what it has to say about the course the president has decided to pursue in the matter of removals and appointments.

The Journal infers in all when it may concern that the president has apparently decided that persons appointed and commissioned for four years will not be removed before the expiration of their terms, except for special cause other than political. That he has decided on this as a general rule, says the Journal, is indicated by his own acts and expressions as well as by the testimony of others. "It is evident," adds the Indianapolis paper, "he has reached a decision gradually, and not without due consideration. Having reached it, he does not hesitate, when circumstances require so to inform applicants for office and those who are urging their appointment. Importunate congressmen and disappointed applicants alike report that in quite a number of instances where the president was being urged to speedy action he has said: 'The terms must expire before removal.'" The Journal proceeds to justify the president's decision as "right and wise," "sound in principle and in law," "in the interest of good government and good politics," "a return to constitutional principles and correct methods," and much more to the same effect.

To fortify this position and defend the president in it, the Journal proceeds to show that the early practice of the government permitted no removals for political or partisan ends. "The removal of four years' officials without cause," it adds, "only began with the inauguration of the modern spoils system, and even then was slow in developing into a fixed practice and rule. The growth of the practice has been steadily away from the constitutional idea and from sound governmental methods. Common sense, common justice, good government and good politics alike require that every person appointed and commissioned to a merely administrative office for four years, democrat or republican, be permitted to serve out his term, except for good cause, other than mere political difference, justifying his removal."

These statements, from such a source, make it look as if many office seekers would have to wait awhile for the fulfillment of their expectations. Cleveland slaughtered nearly the whole line of republican officials without mercy; but his example is not to be followed. The New York Evening Post, a mugwump paper, says it "pointed out a few weeks ago that the removal of an official for political reasons was really unconstitutional, and, according to Madison's interpretation of that instrument, would justify the impeachment of the president who should be guilty of it."

We do not remember that, while Cleveland was president, the Evening Post, or any other mugwump or democratic paper, pointed out this fact. But it is well they have discovered it now, for it is, in fact, a sound principle that the officials shall be permitted to serve out the terms for which they have been appointed.

CARING FOR THE CALDREN.

Practical philanthropy was found in the destitution, grief and distress left by the terrible Johnstown flood large field for endeavor. In sheltering the homeless, clothing the naked and feeding the starving it has performed services in the name of humanity that the bitter stress of chaos rendered imperative, in order that the enormous death list might not be duplicated by results contingent upon the first disaster.

But unceasing and efficient as has been the care rendered in these lines, the work of relief has not stopped here. The most pitiful, because the most bewildered and helpless of the sufferers by the flood, were the children—went from their homes by the reckless waters and, protected from death by Providence, fate or chance, only to find themselves homeless and bereft of parents and relations. To seek them out and, if possible, restore them to parents who mourned them as lost, to soothe and comfort and reassure such as were found to be orphaned, and to provide homes for those who were unclaimed, has been the work of women counseled with the Philadelphia "Home for Lee Friendless" and the "Children's Aid Society" of that city. The work in which these women are engaged is charity pure and simple. Destitute, lonely, frightened little ones are sought, every effort known to organized benevolence is made to find their parents and relatives, and failing in this, homes are provided for them, into which they are welcomed with every promise of care and protection. In one instance nine children belonging to one family were found utterly destitute, the parents and eldest sister having been drowned, and the pitiful, bewildered, suffering little band was conveyed to the Home for the Friendless in charge of five women of the society, who, when they had seen them made comfortable, returned to Johnstown in search of other homeless ones. The first object in this work is to reunite families separated by the flood, and failing in this, to provide the helpless ones with homes.

While the spirit of charity that puts the hand of its possessor into his pocket upon demand is the sustaining force back of the purely philanthropic effort that seeks out the friendless and homeless to comfort and provide for them, the latter is instinct with the essence of self-sacrifice and purity which is not an essential element of the former. Every one gives to charitable deeds knows how much easier and more pleasant it is to pay for disagreeable work in clean money, earned at a more or less agreeable occupation, than it is to perform the menial and disagreeable tasks attendant upon imbuing cleanliness, waiting upon the sick, preparing the dead for burial and comforting the poverty-stricken, but none the less grief-stricken, mourner. Urged on by their ready sympathies; prompted by the spirit of self-sacrifice that is a controlling element in the lives of women engaged in such work, no detail necessary to its successful accomplishment is neglected and it will be prosecuted as long as hapless children of this calamity are found who need homes.

COURAGE, TRUTH AND FAME.

We live in a progressive world. One of the proofs of it is the fact that on Sunday last a statue of Giordano Bruno was unveiled at Rome, with imposing ceremonies, in the presence of 30,000 people.

Bruno was burned at the stake at Rome, February 17, 1600. His offense was "heresy." He had taught many doctrines that the church, in its infallibility, did not approve, notably that the earth turns on its axis and revolves round the sun, coupled with the conjecture that every star is a sun with planets revolving around it. In philosophy his speculations tended to pantheism, and he was marked by the authorities of the church as a most dangerous heretic. Exiled by the holy inquisition and imprisoned at Venice many years, he was finally surrendered to Rome, where he was condemned to punishment by burning at the stake. He was one of those whose life and death set the mind of the world free from the shackles, and at Rome of to-day to receive honors as a pioneer in that struggle for freedom of thought and liberty of conscience that has delivered the world.

A few years after the martyrdom of Bruno, Galileo was arraigned for the same "heresies" of which Bruno had been guilty, but not having Bruno's courage and not willing to go to the stake, he "recanted," swore upon the gospels that he never would again teach the doctrine of the earth's motion and the sun's stability, and was allowed to live. It was justifiable in him, no doubt, to recant in order to save his life, but Bruno was made of sterner stuff, and his truthful heroism finds the guerdon of honor and immortality.

Bruno couldn't foresee it, so he died simply for the truth; but if he could have foreseen it, it would have been worth the while to die even as he died by the torture of fire, for the honor of his statue at Rome and for his fame throughout the world.

FIXING THE RESPONSIBILITY.

From one of the pulpits of Portland, on Sunday last, a discourse was delivered on the evils of intemperance, a summary of which appeared next day in THE OREGONIAN. The discourse was a picture of the horrors of intemperance, and it was as forcible and pathetic as in the main, it was true. We reproduce this passage:

> Rags, hunger, desolation, despair, death. Nothing for the wife, and worse than nothing for her children when she dies and leaves them. Clothes? Why, that woman has literally had none for ten years. Food and comfort? She has neither. There is no carpet on the floor. No curtains on the windows—only a newspaper fastened up with pins on two of them, and an old apron on another. She and her children do not live; they simply exist. There are good things, but none for her. There are pleasant surroundings, but not for her and hers. The children, only last night, two of them, came home and told how they saw the butcher, with his great white apron on, cutting steaks and roasts for the people, and how their mouths watered for some, but the brewer and the ex-confederate had all their father's money, and they could have no steak or roast—not even a soup-bone. Their homes (the brewers' and the saloonkeepers') are well furnished. They have curtains of lace and dishes of china, and a cook in the kitchen who is an expert at rare dishes, and a second girl to do the work of the house. And why should they not have, for they have all the earnings of hundreds of men who take almost nothing home, but contribute it all to them.

This is a sad picture of the wretched homes of intemperance; yet, sad as it is, the picture is not overdrawn. But there is an error in this method of treating the subject, and that error consists in assuming that the man who sells the liquor, rather than the man who seeks it and drinks it, is the primary and real author of all this misery. Anathemas too many or too severe cannot be uttered against him who sells drink to the drunkard while his family is in rags; and yet it is not possible to relieve the intemperate man of his responsibility, or to reform him by an attack upon the man from whom he solicits the drink. To do so would be to reverse the whole order of the moral world.

The state of Minnesota has the distinction of starting legislation on this subject from the right point. The law makes drunkenness a crime and punishes it as such. We quote a summary of the statute:

> Whoever becomes intoxicated by voluntarily drinking intoxicating liquors shall be deemed guilty of the crime of drunkenness, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished as follows:
>
> For the first offense by a fine of not less than $10 nor more than $50, or by imprisonment for not less than ten nor more than forty days.
>
> For the second offense by imprisonment for not less than thirty nor more than sixty days, or by a fine of not less than $20 nor more than $100.
> For the third or all subsequent offenses by imprisonment for not less than sixty days nor more than ninety days.

It will be said, of course, that if it is a crime to get drunk it must be a crime to sell the liquor, and that the seller is a participant with the buyer and drinker in the crime. But this does not necessarily follow; it can only follow in cases where vile wretches sell to men already drunk, or to men known to be drunkards, and therefore irresponsible. In every state there is public sentiment strongly disposed to enforce penalties against sellers of this description. But in general men are rightly presumed to be, and are in fact, responsible for their own conduct. If the man gets drunk it is his own act. It is he who sees the intoxicant; it is he who swallows it; he it is who should bear the censure and the penalty of his misdemeanor.

It is useless to try to work the reform backward. The means of evil are always within the reach of those who seek them. It may be supposed they always will be. Good and evil are before men at every stage of their existence, and it is impossible to conceive of a condition or situation of a different kind.

THE ENGLISH JURY SYSTEM.

In our country the jury system is a copy of that of England. The twelve are required to agree, and one man, through stupidity, obstinacy or for any worse reason, may prevent a verdict. In Scotland in the trial of criminal cases the jury consists of fifteen men, a bare majority of whom may find a verdict; in civil causes the jury consists of twelve, seven of whom may decide the issue. A Dundee (Scotland) paper has these remarks on the defects of the English system, which, it may be said, will apply in the United States as well as in England:

> A case has just been heard which proves once again the heredity of the English jury system so far as it requires absolute unanimity in a verdict that will hold. The case came before the Liverpool county court, and, although eleven of the jury had agreed on their verdict, the foreman had to tell the judge that they could not convince the other man, and that there did not appear to be any hope of bringing him to the same mind as the rest. The judge could only regret the fact and point out the heavy costs involved in a new trial. He urged the jurymen to discuss the matter further in the hope that the eleven might be able to convince the twelfth man. While the jury were attempting this task the judge expressed his astonishment that a system which placed in one man the power of destroying practical unanimity should have remained in existence so long. In this case the one juryman, even after another attempt to convince him, resisted every effort of the eleven, and once more the parties to the action will have to go through a new trial. Those who are responsible for this system have opened the door for one person, setting himself for interested purposes, to vote the decision of probably eleven better men than himself. Of course mere stubbornness or pig-headedness is not much better. The verdicts of juries, both in England and Scotland, have long been the theme of cynics and satirists, but the average Englishman himself has a grievance which does not exist in Scotland. The Scottish system requiring in criminal cases only a bare majority in the fifteen men, or, in civil cases, of the twelve, is a more reasonable system, though we have seen complaints raised where a man has been ordered to be hung by a bare majority of eight to seven. It is, however, in civil cases where the evil effects of the present jury system in England is most noticeable. In Scotland, to which the most of the forms of the English practice in civil cases were introduced some seventy years ago, there is greater freedom than there is south of the border, for by a comparatively recent statute a judge may accept and act on a verdict of nine of the twelve jurymen. The sooner some such relaxation of the hard and fast system of complete unanimity, at anyrate in civil cases, is introduced the better.

The week beginning June 24, which is to witness the first execution by electricity under the new law in New York, is near at hand and public interest in the event is becoming intense. From what is known concerning the preliminaries it is doubtful if the strain upon the criminal's nerves will be less than that incident upon hanging. The apparatus is intricate, much thought and mechanical skill having been brought to bear upon it, and it is believed that no accident is possible, so careful have been the tests and so painstaking the details. The intention is to use a current of 1000 volts. The unhappy prisoner who awaits this experiment is Joseph Kemmler. Whatever his feelings of horror or dread may be, the public is less to or but $736 40 more than house rent cost the other family, and have had a better home than any rented house could be, and have left as a profit and saving by the transaction a home worth (in four years from now in any part of Portland or its suburbs) at least twice the cost now, say $2760, a sure saving of $750, and a profit of $300.

Makes a total outlay of $2110

The price of real estate is advancing all along the lines. The chance to obtain a moderate house at a cost within the means of an ordinary salaried man, and on such liberal terms and about Portland. It takes but $300 for a starter, and any man can pay the balance of $1400, at $26 per month, while he has a home to live in.

Taking a house this way is not going into debt. It is diverting otherwise lost money to the definite purpose of getting a home.

Call at No. 7 Sherlock's, and see how good a house and lot you can get on these terms.

PORTLAND, TUESDAY, JUNE 11.

LINCOLN AND CHASE.

The re-examination of the history of the American Revolution by Fiske, McMaster and others makes it clear that it succeeded in spite of opposition within its own ranks. That is, Washington, Franklin and some others pulled together, but there were times when the house of the so-called colonial patriots was divided against itself, so that nothing but the immense popular influence of Washington prevented failure. In other words there were plenty of "copperheads" behind the Continental as there were behind the Federal army, and Washington, like Lincoln, succeeded in spite of congress, in spite of the intestine political feuds that were waged by Law, Adams and the Lees of Virginia. Washington succeeded, as did Lincoln, because the people were behind him.

The June Century reviews the opposition violently made to the renomination of Lincoln in 1864 by a faction of radical republicans, whose leader was Secretary Chase of Lincoln's cabinet. Chase was a strange mixture of moral philanthropy and political selfishness. He was an intensely ambitious man and before the war had become a more radical anti-slavery man than Seward. Chase participated in the free-soil national convention of 1848, that nominated Martin VanBuren and Charles Francis Adams for president and vice president, while Seward, a less ambitious man, stayed within the lines of the whig party until the formation of the republican party in 1855-1856. Up to the election of Lincoln, the nation believed Chase a more radical republican and a more adventurous patriot than Seward, but when the republican party came into power, Seward behaved with more patriotism in Lincoln's cabinet than Chase—that is Seward was capable of severer self-abnegation for the sake of the cause than Chase. This probably grew out of the fact that Seward was a far warmer-hearted man than Chase, and his warmth of heart made him in war time less selfish in his ambition. Chase was pure, cold and clean in his private and public life, but he was no ambitious that, in his anxiety to succeed Lincoln in 1864, he behaved badly. Mr. Chase had for his helpers and satellites Ben Wade, Winter Davis, General Fremont, General John Cochrane, Wendell Phillips, Senator Pomeroy, of Kansas; Gratz Brown, of Missouri; Rev. George B. Cheever, Mrs. E. Cady Stanton; in short, every "crank" in the country. These malcontents met in convention at Cleveland. In this convention Lincoln was denounced as "a proslavery politician, as a craven and a laggard." Horace Greeley refused to attend the convention, and declared that "the only convention he took any interest in was that one Grant was holding before Richmond." This Cleveland convention was so small and cheap an affair that Lincoln, with characteristic humor, reached for his Bible and read these words:

And every one that was in distress, and every one that was in debt, and every one that was discontented, gathered themselves unto him; and he became a captain over them; and there were with him about 400 men.

In other words, the great war for the Union in 1864 had a "mugwump" Union faction, composed, as Sam Bowles felicitously defined it, "of the gentler sex of both genders." This Cleveland convention nominated Fremont for president, and he accepted in a letter from which the following extracts are made:

To-day we have in the country the abuses of a military dictation without its unity of action and vigor of execution—an administration marked at home by disregard of constitutional rights, by its violation of personal liberty and the liberty of the press, and, as a crowning shame, by its abandonment of the right of asylum.

But if Mr. Lincoln should be nominated—as I believe it would be fatal to the country to indorse a policy and renew a power which has cost us the lives of thousands of men, and needlessly put the country on the road to bankruptcy—there will remain no other alternative but to organize against him every element of conscientious opposition with a view to prevent the misfortune of his re-election. His administration has been politically, militarily and financially a failure, and that its necessary continuance is a cause of regret for the country.

These words will be worth remembering and quoting when Fremont's career is reviewed after his death. He was clearly a small, vain petulant man, of the same calibre with the pettish and sentimental McClellan.

Secretary Chase, a far abler man, appears as badly as Fremont in his correspondence. He indulges in vulgar gossip at Lincoln. We quote:

It seems as if there were no limit to expense. * * * The spigot in Uncle Abe's barrel is made twice as big as the bung-hole. He may have been a good flatboatman and rail-splitter, but he certainly never learned the true science of cooperage. Very many who may ultimately vote for Mr. Lincoln will wait the course of events, hoping that some popular movement for Grant, or some other successful general, will offer a better hope of saving the country. * * * And the number seems to be increasing, will not support his nomination in any event; believing that our ill-success thus far in the suppression of the rebellion is due mainly to his course of action and inaction, and that no change can be for the worse. I am trying to keep all presidential aspiration out of my head. I fancy that as president I could take care of the treasury better with the help of a secretary than I can as secretary without the help of a president.

Lincoln kept his temper all this time and did not hesitate to nominate Chase for chief justice of the supreme court any more than Grant did Porter to succeed Farragut for admiral in face of the fact that Porter had written a very mean and ungrateful letter concerning him.

"DURING AN INVALID PERIOD."

The recklessness with which morphia is used by the medical profession to-day is chargeable with the ruin of many lives and the breaking up of many homes. The temptation to allay pain, the cause of which cannot readily be determined or controlled, by opium in some of its potent and convenient forms is great; that it is more frequently indulged than the good of the patient dictates is a fact made apparent by the physical and mental wrecks of humanity that fill insane asylums, public and private, and make miniature hells of many homes through the "morphine habit."

As often as public attention is directed to such a case, the fact is brought out that the habit was fastened upon the victim through a "period of invalidism." The wife of ex-Senator Sabin, of Minnesota, is the latest case in point. A few years ago one of the most fascinating and cultured society women of the national capital, she has for some months been confined to a private asylum, to which she was committed at her own request, a victim to her insatiable appetite for morphine and its frequent accompaniment, liquor, acquired "during an invalid period" some years ago. Her husband, with questionable sensibility, seeks a divorce, having become convinced that the mental, moral and physical wreck of his wife is complete and permanent. Certainly physical pain, in whatever form or however intense, could not have wrought consequences so deplorable as this. Better a thousand times one should die from disease than that its sentinel, pain, should be lulled to sleep at a cost so fearful!

One of the industrial wonders of this wonderful state is why it will not pay to make butter in Oregon, while it pays to ship the article into the state from California and Iowa. The shutting down of the McMinnville creamery a few days ago is noted. The Reporter of that town says the market is overstocked to an alarming degree and that several thousand pounds of a first-class product now on hand cannot be disposed of except at a loss. Will some sagacious middleman tell the public why this is thus, as neither the producer at one end of the line nor the consumer at the other is able to fully understand it?

NOTE AND COMMENT.

A few days before the terrible conflagration the Seattle Journal was urging the need of careful building to be out of danger. It urged that a building inspector should have control of new erections. The fire that swept the city showed the need of care and the presence of danger. Seattle will no doubt have its building inspector and will take precaution that every erection shall be fire proof as well as wind proof. Every new town has a fearful tendency to slackness, but the lesson of such a disaster suffices to secure the rebuilding of the city in a way that will make the recurrence of such a disaster impossible.

There is seldom a time when some fatures do not occur, and some histories do not suspend work. That this occurs when protection is the rule only shows that protection has not made them invulnerable. If they fail with protection they would more certainly fail without it. On what ground democratic authorities continually denounce protection is not plain. They talk disconnectedly and try to make voters believe there is good reasoning in their talk but the people can see for themselves that if our industries were not protected and encouraged we should not have a home market for our wheat, as we do have, for very little now goes abroad.

The dispatches of THE OREGONIAN yesterday reported that the "clerks of Seattle, which formed an incidental part of the population, are in despair. Many of them lost all they had but the clothes on the r back, and are out of employment. Some of them have, through false pride, gone hungry, rather than eat at the free-meal tents." The clerks of Seattle are more nice than wise. Supposing they were shipwrecked would they decline food and clothing? And what is a great fire but a "shipwreck" on land? A vagrant in Portland holding out his smoking hand for an abode is one thing, but a shipwrecked citizen is quite another, so let these clerks put their pride in their pockets.

Woman's rights is not a mere myth in Eastern Washington. At Palouse City the girls talk of organizing a baseball nine and they intend to challenge the world. It is well enough for women to show that they can do things in a manly way—that is other things besides voting. When they show that they can manage baseball and make their record as a winning team, it will be all right for them to ask for the ballot. Women manage many social games where gentlemen take a part, but baseball is a trifle rough and needs to be handled in a muscular way. If they can get through the shibboleth of the diamond field, and catch, and pitch and toss, they will stand a fair show to win suffrage for themselves.

Michigan is favored with weather in very complicated variety. After a period of intensely hot weather, they had a change with a vengeance. A snow storm raged awhile, and the world was covered with sleet. The even temperature of Oregon is something the world is unable to command elsewhere, and the record made by the daily newspapers of the country should answer the purpose of bringing population here. In the course of time, when these things are generally understood, people will not migrate to Oregon and lay land to get the climate thrown in. There is no reason why Oregon should not be as highly appreciated for climate as California. Our summers are by far more pleasant than they are there.

W. Carey Johnson, esq., of Oregon city, has a cherry tree, a six-year old seedling, that he considers a very superior fruit and worthy of being propagated. It is of large size and firm enough to bear shipment to a distance. Good shipping fruit is at a premium with us, and the "The Pioneer," as it is to be called, will become a favorite fruit in Oregon and California. Its color is very dark red and almost purple. It is nearly as large as the Royal Ann. Western Oregon now has several original cherries. The Black Republican originated with Seth Lunding, at Milwaukie, and from it he has started a seedling larger and finer than that. H. W. Prettyman, of Mount Tabor, originated a large dark cherry from the Royal Ann. This last, by Mr. Johnson, promises to equal anything known. Our state is becoming the native home of fine varieties of peaches, prunes, plums, apples and pears, at this new kinds are so superior that more pains should be taken by horticulturists to test the value of seedlings. Some fine seedling strawberries have been tried in East Portland.

A PUGET SOUND COLLECTOR.

An Episode of the Administration of President Lincoln.

Popular Science Monthly.

Mr. Lincoln was subjected to great trouble and inconvenience by the constant complaints which came to him by every mail from Puget sound against the collector for that district, one Victor Smith, from Ohio, a friend and appointee of Mr. Chase. This Smith is described by Schuckers as a man not very likely to become popular on the Pacific coast—or anywhere else. He believed in spirit rappings and was an avowed abolitionist; he whined a great deal about "progress"; was somewhat arrogant in manner and intolerant in speech, and speedily made himself thoroughly unpopular in his office.

No attention was paid by the secretary to these complaints, which were from time to time referred to him by the president; but at last the clamor by letter and by deputations from across the continent became intolerable, and the president, during a somewhat protracted absence of the secretary from Washington, ordered a change to be made in the office. In a private note to Mr. Chase, wishing to avoid giving him personal offense, he said:

My mind is made up to remove Victor Smith as collector of the customs at the Puget Sound district. Yet in doing this I do not decide that the charges against him are true. I only decide that the degree of dissatisfaction with him there is too great for him to be retained. But I believe he is your personal acquaintance and friend, and if you desire it, I will try to find some other place for him.

Three days later the secretary, having returned to Washington, answered in his full and usual manner, protesting once more his ardent desire to serve the country faithfully, and claiming that he had a right to be consulted in matters of appointment. He sent a blank commission for the person whom the president had concluded to appoint, but protested against the precedent, and tendered his resignation. This time again the president gave way. He drove to the secretary's house, handed his personal letter back to him, and begged him to think no more of the matter. Two days afterward, in a letter assenting to otl er recommendations or office which had come to him from the treasury department, he said, "Please send me over the commission for Louis C. Gunn, as you recommend, for collector of customs at Puget sound."

THE CHINOOK JARGON.

The Popular Science Monthly for June has an article by Edward Howard Nicoll concerning the Chinook jargon, which he defines and describes as follows:

Chinook, a language or jargon, the existence of which few people living east of the Rocky mountains know of, is the sole medium of communication between the whites and Indians on the Northwest coast of America, from the Columbia river to Alaska, including the tribes scattered over Washington territory and Oregon. Chinook is a conventional language, and in this respect is like the lingua franca of the Mediterranean coast, and the "pidgin" English of the East Indies and China.

A century ago, in the year 1787, two vessels, the Columbia, commanded by John Kendrick, and the Washington, by Robert Gray, left Boston on a voyage to the northwest coast of America to open up a fur trade, and, if possible, to trade with China. At the rendezvous in Nootka sound, to the westward of Vancouver island, which latter is a part of what is now British Columbia, the people on the vessels acquired a number of words used by the natives. The expedition going afterward up the Columbia river, the traders acquired these Indian words with them there, which, added to some common and easily pronounced English words, formed the beginning and basis of Chinook. Its vocabulary, however, was scant until the coming of the Astor expedition and the settlement of Astoria. It was then enlarged by numerous English words, together with many of French origin, or of the Canadian patois. The dialects of the Chinook and Clatsop tribes, which grouped about Southeastern Oregon, furnished many words for its development. The Hudson Bay and Northwest Companies, and the early settlers in Oregon, further added to it; it came into use between Indians of different tribes, and even between Americans and Canadians; it spread to Puget sound, and found its way, with trade, up the Pacific coast and rivers, as explorers and settlers advanced, gradually spreading until its use reached its present extent.

Chinook is not a written language, and he spelling given here is purely phonetic. Of the 500 or 600 words in common use, about one-third are of English and French derivation; a few can not be traced to any source, and the rest are taken from the Chehalis and Chinook dialects.

KNEW THE DAM WAS UNSAFE.

But the Club Officials Knowing It Was Unsafe Refused to Tap the Lake.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 5.—Herbert Webber was employed by the South Fork Club as a sort of guard. He supported himself mostly by hunting and fishing in the club's preserves.

By almost superhuman efforts he succeeded in working his way through forest and across flood in order to ascertain for himself the terrible results of the deluge which he saw start from the Sportsman's Club's lake.

Webber said that he had been employed in various capacities about the preserve for a considerable time. He had repeatedly, he declared, called the attention of the members of the club to the various leakages at the dam, but he received the stereotyped reply that the masonry was all right, that it had been "built to stand for centuries," and that such a thing as its giving way was among the impossibilities.

But Webber did not hesitate to continue his warnings. Finally, according to his own statement, he was instructed to "shut up or he would be bounced." He was given to understand that the officers of the club were tired of his croakings, and that the less he said about the dam from then on the better it would be for him.

Mr. Webber, with a greater appreciation of the safety of the valley than the necessity of a livelihood, laid his complaint before the mayor of Johnstown not more than a month ago. He told him that the spring freshets were due, and that if they should be heavy, the dam would certainly give away.

He says that the mayor promised to send an expert to examine the dam then, and, if necessary, to appeal to the state. Somehow an expert was not chosen. The catastrophe ensued.

For three days previous to the final outburst, Webber says, the water of the lake forced itself out through the interstices of the masonry so that the front of the dam resembled a large watering pot. The force of the water was so great that one of these jets squirted fully thirty feet horizontally from the stone wall. All this time, too, the feeders of the lake, particularly three of them, were nearly resembled torrents than mountain streams and were supplying the dammed up body of water with quite 1,000,000 gallons of water hourly.

At 11 o'clock last Friday morning, Webber says, he was attending to a camp about a mile back from the dam, when he noticed that the surface of the lake seemed to bow up. He doubted his eyes, and made a mark on the shore and when found that his suspicions were undoubtedly well founded.

He ran across country to the dam and there saw, he declares, the water of the lake welling out from beneath the foundation stones of the dam. Absolutely helpless, he was compelled to stand there and watch the gradual development of what was to be the most disastrous flood of this continent.

According to his reckoning it was 12:45 when the stones in the center of the dam began to sink, because of the undermining, and within eight minutes a gap of twenty feet was made in the lower half of the wallface through which the water poured as though forced by machinery of stupendous power.

By 1 o'clock the topping masonry which before had partaken somewhat of the form of an arch fell in, and then the remainder of the wall opened outward like twin gates and the great lake was foaming and thundering down the valley of the Conemaugh.

Webber became so awe-struck at the catastrophe that he declares he was unable to leave the spot until the lake had fallen so low that it showed the bottom fully fifty feet below him. How long a time elapsed he says he does not know before he recovered sufficient power of observation to notice this, but he does not think that more than five minutes passed.

Webber says that had the dam been repaired after the spring freshet of 1888 the disaster would not have occurred. Had it been given ordinary attention in the spring of 1887, the probabilities are that thousands of lives would not have been lost.

To have put the dam in excellent condition would not have cost $5000. Carelessness, which in the minds of an intelligent coroner's jury might be termed criminal, was the sole cause of the deluge.

WARNED THE PEOPLE TO LEAVE.

It so happened that at the time of the flood there was a civil engineer present in charge of the construction of a sewer and water works on the club grounds. This gentleman, Mr. John G. Parkhurst, saw the catastrophe from first to last. Here is his account of it:

"Thursday night the dam was in perfect condition and the water was not within seven feet of the top. At that stage the lake is nearly three miles long. It rained hard Thursday night. When I got up Friday morning I could see that it was a flood, for the water was over the drive in front of the club house, and the level of the water in the lake had risen until it was only four feet below the top of the dam. I rode up to the head of the lake and saw that the woods were boiling full of water. South fork and Muddy run, which emptied into the lake, were fetching down trees, logs, and cut timber from a new mill they have up in the woods in that direction. A plow was run along the top of the dam and earth was thrown in the face of the dam to strengthen it. At the same time a channel was dug on the west end to make a slope for the waters. There were about three feet of shale rock through which it was possible to cut, but then we struck bedrock that it was impossible to get into without blasting.

"When we got the channel opened the water soon scoured down to the bedrock, and a stream twenty feet wide and three deep rushed out on that end of the dam, while the river was letting out an enormous quantity on the south end. Notwithstanding these outlets the water kept rising at the rate of about ten inches an hour.

"By 11:30 I had made up my mind that it was impossible to save the dam, and getting on my horse I galloped down the valley of South Fork to warn the people of their danger. The telegraph tower is a mile from the town, and I sent two men there to have messages sent to Johnstown and other points below. I heard that only one operator fainted when she had sent off the news and had to be carried off. The people of South Fork had ample time to get to high ground, and they were able to move their furniture, too. In fact, only one person was drowned in South Fork, and he while attempting to fish something from the flood as it rolled by. It was just 12 o'clock when the telegraph messages were sent out, so that the people at Johnstown had over three hours' warning.

"The break took place at 3 o'clock. It was about ten feet wide at first and shallow, but grew wider with increasing rapidity and the lake was soaring down the valley; the three miles of water were drained out in forty-five minutes. The downfall of those 60,000,000 tons was simply irresistible. Stones from the dams and boulders in the river bed were carried for miles. It was a terrible sight to see that avalanche of water go down that valley already choked with floods."

RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE DISASTER.

Chicago Tribune.

In the presence of so great a calamity as that at Johnstown, it is but natural that curiosity to know the cause, eagerness to establish responsibility, and indignation at apparent negligence, should quickly follow the public sympathy. The South Fork lake was originally a feeder for the Pennsylvania canal and naturally had ample outlets. When it ceased to be used for that purpose it was purchased by a syndicate of wealthy men for pleasure purposes. They raised it far above its former level and increased its area by purchasing grounds, and then enlarged the dam which restrained its waters by adding a long section and raising its height. There is at present a conflict of statements as to its material. One authority says it was made of solid masonry, another that the embankments were principally shale and clay, and that in the new work leaks were frequently stopped with straw. Be this as it may, it is evident that the dam was not strong enough to resist the pressure of the water. It was about 110 feet in height, nearly 1000 feet wide, ninety feet thick at the base, and twenty feet at the top. Behind it was a lake in ordinary times three and a half miles long, a mile wide, and from seventy-five to 100 feet deep. There is no reason to believe that there was a cloud-burst or any unusual convulsion of nature. The steady and heavy downpour of rain had swelled all the little mountain brooks which fed it into torrents. The weir at one end of the dam and the sluiceway which was opened at the other had no effect. The lake steadily rose that fatal day. By noon it was flowing over the crest of the dam. In an hour's time its entire middle section, where the pressure was strongest, gave way; in one hour more South Fork was a lake of mud, with a little stream trickling through its center. Its 50,000,000 tons of water had made its fatal plunge, carrying death and destruction before it.

Experts may figure this way or that. Engineers may defend or condemn the structure of the dam. The grim results in the valley proclaim that that reservoir 2000 feet above it was a constant menace. There came a time when it was not able to stand the pressure. If it had not been considered unsafe the people in the valley below would not have been warned so frequently. In the frequency of these warnings probably was their greatest danger, for they had been so accustomed to them that at last they ignored them. That is only human nature. They certainly were responsible to a certain extent for their own negligence and indifference, but this does not lessen the responsibility of the men who for their own pleasure maintained an artificial lake of great extent and held it in bonds with a dam which they ought to have known could not withstand an extraordinary pressure.

DR. DARRIN RETURNED.

What the Astoria Pioneer Thinks of Him.

Dr. Darrin's sojourn in Astoria has expired and he has returned to the head office in Portland, where he is permanently located.

The visit of Dr. Darrin to Astoria is filled with interest in many particulars. When he first arrived he advertised very extensively, and the cry went up that there was some catch in it. Then he cured one case that was considered hopeless, and a surprise was felt. After that the very worst cases in existence were given him as a test by all doubters. If he cures this one I will believe it, the doubters school, and after treatment the patient was as sound as a dollar. Then they gave him another test case, and another, and so on, but all with the same result. He effected a cure in nearly every instance. Then the doctor's terrible rush of patients began, and the stream has been growing larger every day, numbering some of the best people in the state. A visit to the offices of Drs. Darrin is certainly a curiosity as well as a wonder. Patients are carried one day, and in a week's time, instead of being carried there, they walk up the stairs as sprightly as young boys. What there is about them is certainly mysterious, for they have performed most remarkable cures, as the testimonials that we have heretofore published have proved, and we give the names of the following as further proof:

Andrew Anderson, Port Townsend, W. T., cross eyed from paralysis of the outer muscles of the eye; cured by one operation.

R. P. Sawtell, Independence, W. T., dyspepsia and kidney complaint, pronounced Bright's disease by some physicians; restored.

Mrs. L. K. Harman's son, of Vancouver, W. T., cured of a loathsome case of catarrh and polypus of the nose; also her daughter of a tumor.

C. Riese, seven miles west of Fulton, Or., liver and kidney trouble, dizziness and pains over the whole system; restored to health.

Charles Brugger, Reedville, Or., almost total blindness from the effects of measles; restored after other doctors said he was past cure.

Mrs. L. Mattoon, East Portland, Or., catarrh, bronchitis, nervousness and sleepless nights and loss of flesh; cured and gained twelve pounds.

Mrs. A. J. Quantel, 1361 Railroad street, Tacoma, W. T., stoppage of tear duct, causing tears to overflow down the cheeks; cured by one operation.

Mrs. Mevie Gebfort, Seattle, W. T., boy 5 years old, deaf since 16 months old, discharging ears and catarrh; entirely cured after several treatments.

The Doctor's Place of Business.

Dr. Darrin can be consulted free at 225 Fifth street, corner of Main, Portland. Office hours, from 10 to 5 o'clock daily; evenings, 7 to 8; Sundays, 10 to 12. All curable chronic diseases, loss of manhood, blood taints, syphilis, gleet, gonorrhœa, stricture, spermatorrhœa, seminal weakness, or loss of desire of sexual power, in man or woman, catarrh and deafness, are confidentially and successfully treated. Cures of private diseases guaranteed, and never published in the papers. Circulars sent free. Most cases can receive home treatment after a visit to the doctor's office.

☞ The doctor has no representatives practicing in the state, as has recently been discovered in Benton county. All persons taking the name of Dr. Darrin are frauds.

[NEW YORK OF THE WOOL MARKET.

The Bulletin's Wool Report of recent date has the following to say in regard to the situation of the wool market:

The movement of the wool has been good and a number of manufacturers have been on the market during the week. But the small amount of desirable wool on hand has made their purchases of moderate proportions and the sales show no increase over previous weeks. The prices here are of pulled wools, of which there is a good supply. New wools are arriving, but in large quantities as yet, and the sales of which they are held are a drawback to business. In prices there has been no change from last week, and our quotations are the same. There is a steady feeling, owing to the small stocks available and the indifference of dealers about disposing of old wool in view of the present movement of new wool. The auction sales of old wool out of new wool. The auction sales of old wool out of new wool have attracted considerable attention in New York and Tuesday, Wednesday were by order of Faelkner, Page & Co., and consisted of 12,000 packages of plain A Cs, and consisted of 12,000 packages of plain A Cs, and consisted of a complete variety of their celebrated makes, both white and colored. Jobbers and manufacturers from all parts of the country were present. The demand was brisk from the start to the finish, without breaking down in the least, which may be summarized as follows: The result may be summarized as follows: Fine delaines, with prices ranging about 5 per cent higher than those identified with last year's sales of corresponding lines. In a comparison of prices of the raw material are from 10 to 15 per cent. higher than they were a year ago, and that while the rise is a satisfactory one on the surface, that the present high cost of wool makes the advance rather limited hardly adequate. In fact it is considered by many more decided advance will take place before the sale took place. The question of wool has not, therefore, been settled by these auction sales. The market is unsettled. Advices from the Western markets are of the strongest nature, and the old wool now in stock cannot be disposed of at the prices asked for the new clip in the interior. Manufacturers are not disposed to pay these for their raw material and will doubtless hold back and abstain from buying. Foreign markets are reported firm and a further advance is anticipated when the next auction sales, which open on the 18th of June. And so we have the spectacle of strong and advancing markets at all the points of supply, but only steady markets at principal points of consumption, which are kept steady by dealers [illegible] of depleted stocks and where leading [illegible] of a decline when stocks are added to by the receipt of new wool.

MARKETS BY TELEGRAPH.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Stocks to-day seemed more entirely to the trading element at the opening, and the scalpings showed a heavy tone, while the trading was confined to a few of the leading shares. Later showers, the more stimulant of good, inspired the scale of the market unfavorably from [illegible] change, and decided strength in the market. The remainder of the dealings, except in the last hour. Realizations then moved the list off, and the final figures are fractionally lower than the best prices, but in most cases materially higher than the final prices of Saturday.

Government bonds have been dull and steady.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 10.—Produce receipts past 48 hours include 56,600 ctls wheat, 12,000 qr sks flour, 1200 ctls oats, 250 ctls barley, 1600 ctls potatoes.

Freight and Charters—The freight market continues to exhibit firmness, with grain tonnage in moderate demand. A scarcity of vessels in port, however, prevents anything like activity in shipments. The British bark Evelyn, iron, 1179 tons, is load flour for Cork, U. K., at 28s 9d, and the ship Louisiana, wood, 1365 tons, for wheat to Queenstown or private terms, are the latest additions to the list. Engaged tonnage in port shows an increase since last week, footing up 8,000 tons, while a decrease of 10,000 tons is shown in the disengaged list, which now amounts to 71,000 tons. The tonnage listed to arrive has increased to 221,000 tons.

Wheat—There was but little business passing in the wheat market this morning, but prices ruled steady at $1 22½@1 26¼ for No. 1 shipping. Traders in the produce exchange were in small magnitude, but prices were higher. Transactions were as follows: No. 1 White, buyer year, 400 tons at 1 24; 100 tons at $1 24½; 200 tons at $1 24½; seller year, new wheat, $1 26¼. Afternoon session—little business passed; there were no sales reported; seller year, new wheat, $1 26.

Barley—The feeling in the market is firmer, and a fair business is doing on a basis of 80@82½c for coast feed; inferior grades 82½@87½c. Options were quiet; buyer year 82½c, seller year, new, 87½. Little was done at the afternoon session; buyer year closed lower at 87c.

Oats—The market still lacks activity, but no material change is shown in values, owing to the light receipts of the past few days. All descriptions of feed range from $17½@$21.

Potatoes—The demand for choice grades is fair, but inferior are little sought after. Quote Early Rose, 50@60c; Burbanks, choice, 60@65c; Mill stuffs—Light offerings, with a moderate demand, cause prices to rule steady. Bran (Oregon) $15.50 per ton; middlings, $17 00@22 50.

Hay—The market shows little or no change. Robbers are scarce, but the volume of business rather lighter. Calcutta for June and July delivery, $9@9½.

Wool—The movement is of fair proportions, at steady prices. Eastern Oregon, 18@19c; valley, nominal.

Hops—Neglected, nominal.

CHICAGO MARKETS.

CHICAGO, June 10.—Wheat receipts past forty-eight hours at the seven primary points east of the Rocky Mountains, 1,136,000 bushels, and the shipments from these points for the same time were 364,000 bushels.

The visible wheat supply east of the Rocky Mountains is 18,332,000 bushels, a decrease during the past week of 1,136,000 bushels.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CHICAGO, June 10.—Cattle—Receipts, 10,000; market to be higher; beeves, 3 40@4 65; steers, 2 75@3 90; stockers and feeders, $2 40@3 50; cows, bulls and mixed, 1 40@3 40.

Hogs—Receipts, 20,000; steady to firm; higher; mixed, $4 30@4 50; heavy, $4 20@4 45; light, $4 30@4 45.

Sheep—Receipts, 7000; steady; natives, 3@4 60; Western, shorn, $3 80@4 25; Texans, shorn, $3@4 25.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Grain freight to Liverpool, easier; 9d per bushel.

MISCELLANEOUS.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Coffee—Options, closed barely steady at 10 to 12 points down; sales, 24,000 bags; June, $16.25@16.30, July, $16.25@16.40; spot Rio, quiet; fair cargoes, 19½c.

Sugar—Raw, excited; much higher; fair refining, 6¾c; centrifugals, 93 test, 8c. Sales, 2000 hogsheads. Muscavado, 87 test, 6¾c. 6400 tons domestic molasses, 82 test, 5.40@5.45c; two cargoes centrifugals, 96 test, 6¾c; refined, firm, active and higher; C, 5¾@6¾c; extra C, 6¾@6¾c; white extra C, 7 15-16@8c; yellow, 7¼@7½c; off A, 8 1-16@8¼c; mould A, 8¼c; standard A, 8 3-16c; confectioner's A, 8¼c; cut loaf, 9¾c, crushed, 9¾c; powdered, 9¾c; granulated, 9c; cubes, 9¼c.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE.

The Rounding Out of a Career of Noble Usefulness.

BOSTON, June 9.—Florence Nightingale is 60 years old, and an invalid. She is seldom able to go out now, but when she can she dearly loves to visit the Nightingale home for the training of nurses, which is an enduring monument to the noble record of her life.

But though she is an invalid, Miss Nightingale pursues her good work yet. From all parts of the world they come to pore in upon her, asking for advice and suggestions in matters of hospital management, health and education, which she seldom fails to answer.

A friend called at her old home in Hyde Park, and asked that lady to send a message to America for the sufferers from the floods. Miss Nightingale wrote the following: "I am afraid I cannot write such a message as I would like to, just at this moment. I have the deepest sympathy with the poor sufferers by flood, and with those good women who are hastening to their help. I am so overworked, and I'll say that while I can feel all the more, I can but write all the less for their necessity."

The Thurmans Out of Luck.

COLUMBUS, O., June 6.—Delegates to the democratic convention were elected here yesterday. Allen G. Thurman, jr., was a candidate, but was defeated by another candidate.

Four Hundred Natives Killed.

ZANZIBAR, June 9.—It is estimated that 400 natives were killed in a recent fight in Saadani. The bulk of the property destroyed belonged to British Indians.

A Hot Day at New York.

NEW YORK, June 9.—To-day was an oppressively hot day. Half a dozen heat prostrations are reported, and one death. Highest temperature, 91.

We recommend the use of Angostura Bitters to our friends who suffer with dyspepsia, but only the genuine, manufactured by Dr. Siegert & Sons. At druggists.

THOUSANDS DESTITUTE.

Seattle in Need of Assistance, Now the Leading Reports to the Contrary.

Ex-Chief Justice J. R. Lewis Says that Thousands Must Live in Tents for Months to Come—Subscribe Liberally!

The following dispatch received by C. H. Dodd at a late hour last night is self-explanatory:

SEATTLE, W. T., June 10.

Chas. H. Dodd, Portland, Or.—Yours to Mayor Moran of the 8th, accept our thanks. Careful examination discloses much destitution, which must be relieved. Thousands are being fed and housed. Work has commenced. Soon labor will be employed, but hundreds must live in tents for months.

J. R. LEWIS,
Chairman Relief Committee.

The above dispatch is an answer to the following sent Mayor Moran, of Seattle, Sunday evening:

We send you by first train 256 pair of blankets. Portland is ready in every way to assist you. How can we do so most effectually?

CHARLES H. DODD,
Chairman Relief Committee.

There have been several dispatches received here from persons in Seattle declining Portland's aid with thanks, but they were all from parties whose personal wants were well supplied and who did not take the trouble to investigate the condition of the poorer classes who lost their all in the fire. Hon. J. R. Lewis, who is in a position to know whereof he speaks, says that although they can be relieved from the present destitution of absolute necessities the aid of Portland, the state, and it is the duty of every citizen to subscribe to the relief fund according to their means.

The committee soliciting funds report that the retailers and jobbers have subscribed liberally, while many who are the best able to go down in their pockets have either refused to give anything or the amount has been small. It may be that those complained of by the committee have thought that Seattle was not in need, but when they see the dispatch at the head of this column, they will see that they are in the wrong and will undoubtedly subscribe liberally when called on to-day. W. S. Ladd alone has signified his willingness to give $5000 if it were needed. His example is worthy of emulation.

AMOUNTS SUBSCRIBED YESTERDAY.

Below will be found the result of the canvass made yesterday by the relief committees in four districts. The canvasser in the fifth district has not been heard from as yet, but it is supposed that their subscription book will show about $600.

The subscription list started by THE OREGONIAN showed that $1809 25 had been received at this office at a late hour last night for the Johnstown sufferers, and $789 36 for the Seattle sufferers.

BE PREPARED TO-DAY.

The committee will start out again this morning, and now that they know the funds they collect are susceptible, will call on many who said when subscribing that they would give more if they thought anyone in Seattle was really in need of aid. Those who have not yet subscribed will be called on to do so. Let every one chip in and do their share of the worthy work.

VANCOUVER WILL CONTRIBUTE.

The city of Vancouver proposes to give a grand celebration of the Fourth of July in aid of the Johnstown sufferers, of which formal announcement will be made in a few days. They propose to have a large procession in the morning, to be followed by speaking, dancing, games of all kinds, refreshments, etc. General Gibbon has kindly consented to give a sham battle with all the troops available, including cavalry, artillery and infantry of the regular army and troops of the national guard. In the evening there will be a magnificent display of fireworks, including mortar bombs of startling beauty. This will be an unusually attractive display and our people will be greatly interested in it. The purpose is so laudable that all must wish their project the best success.

FREE TRANSPORTATION OFFERED.

The following letter will require no explanation:

NORTHERN PACIFIC EXPRESS COMPANY,
SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE, WESTERN DIVISION,
PORTLAND, June 10, 1889.

Mr. D. E. Newcomb, Agent, Portland, Or.—Sir: You are hereby authorized to receive free transportation on donations of clothing, money, etc., contributed to the sufferers at Seattle, when shipped by duly authorized relief committee. Yours truly,

M. G. HALL, Superintendent.

SENT TO OLD COMRADES.

George Wright post G. A. R., of this city, at their regular meeting on Friday evening voted $25 from the relief fund of the post for the relief of the old comrades suffering from the effects of the fire at Seattle. This was swelled to nearly $100 by personal subscriptions from comrades of the post, and this amount forwarded to the relief committee at Seattle on Saturday last. This action on the part of the old soldiers of George Wright post is one of the most practical things done by the citizens thus far, for the relief of those needing help at Seattle.

THE BENEFIT FRIDAY.

Manager John P. Howe has tendered the use of his theater next Friday afternoon for the benefit of needy people at Seattle, and Manager John Cort's first-class company from the Standard, together with the excellent orchestra of the house, have volunteered to give an exceptionally good entertainment at the New Park on that occasion. It will be first-class in all respects.

ANOTHER BENEFIT.

By invitation of the Young People's Association of the First Baptist church, of Portland, Rev. C. C. Bateman, of Mount Tabor, will deliver a lecture in that church to-night. Subject: "Wit and Humor in Life and Literature." All are cordially invited. Admission free. A collection will be taken up after the lecture for the relief of the Seattle fire sufferers.

A Veil of Mist

Rising at morning or evening from some lowland, often carries in its folds the seeds of malaria. Where malarial fever prevails no one is safe, unless protected by some efficient medicinal safeguard. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is both a protection and a remedy. No person who inhabits, or sojourns in a miasmatic region or country, should omit to procure this fortifying agent, which is also the finest known remedy for dyspepsia, constipation, kidney trouble and rheumatism.

No Memory for Figures.

Chicago Tribune.

"Cyrus, where was the text to-day?"

"It was somewhere in Ezekiel. I don't remember the chapter and verse. You know well enough, Emily, I have no memory for figures."

"Was Mr. Dunnup at church?"

"Yes. The old fellow threw a $5 bill into the basket. That man, Emily, has got more gall than a train-load of Texas steers. You remember he made an assignment last week for the benefit of his creditors. The preferred claims amounted to $57,026 19. There were two judgment notes for $12,107.16 and $9677.04, a chattel mortgage for $4295.39, another for $2719.11, a book account at Spotcash & Co.'s for $1296 74, and [remembering the question about the text]—er—yes, Mr. Dunnup was there."

SIX-PER CENT.—Money to loan in amounts of $500 and up, with the privilege of paying part or all before due. Jarvis-Conklin Mortgage Trust Co., 3½ Morrison street.

But I want to keep cool, and how to do it is the question, and it don't pay to shop around these hot days for light clothes, so I'll go straight to Kohn's and get suited from the start. That's about the language we hear every day. And that's the way for people to do. Sensible people go straight to Kohn's for their clothing, because he has three times more stock in his store than any other store in Portland. Notwithstanding all our competitors' blowing,

WE LAY THEM ALL IN THE SHADE.

Our big four stores, 75x100 feet, the largest clothing store west of Chicago, and there are but about six larger ones in the United States. Kohn does undersell all his Portland competitors by about 10 to 20 per cent daily. If you want honest clothing bargains at one price, come and see

NEW YORK.

Caustic—Burning, corroding, destroying the texture of animal flesh. Webster's Dictionary.

Detergent—Cleansing, purging. Webster's Dictionary.

Chemical analysis will prove that Pearline has no caustic qualities, but that the ingredients of which it is made have been so skilfully manipulated, that Pearline stands to-day the greatest household detergent known. Science applauds it; its rapid adoption by intelligent and economical housekeepers, who use many millions of packages each year, is proof positive that science and chemistry are right. These facts should lead those who do not use Pearline, to try it at once; directions for easy washing on every package.

Beware

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers are offering imitations which they claim to be Pearline, or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—they are not, and besides are dangerous. PEARLINE is never peddled, but sold by all good grocers. 148 Manufactured only by JAMES PYLE, New York.
